Order Women Quit Palestine

JERUSALEM, (Reuters)—An order for evacuation from Palestine of British women and children was issued Friday by the Palestine high commissioner, Lt.-Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham.

The order said "following on recent events in Palestine it has been decided that British women and children and certain other British civilians will be evacuated so that the government and the armed forces shall not be hampered in their task of maintaining order."

Meanwhile increased security measures were being taken by military authorities. Army clubs and canteens closed in Jerusalem and British servicewomen were confined to barracks.

It was learned that the evacuation will begin next Tuesday.

It was officially announced that all British civilians remaining in Palestine will be given "protection."

No statistics were available of the exact number of persons to be affected by the evacuation order. A Jewish Agency Economic Research Institute handbook published in 1945 states that 4,500 British people had settled in Palestine at the time of the last census in 1931. But many of these are government officials not affected by the order.

All British correspondents have been advised by the government to leave Palestine.

LONDON, (CP) — Winston Churchill Friday urged the British government to surrender its Palestine mandate to the United Nations unless the United States joins Britain "on a fifty-fifty basis" in a new policy for the Holy Land.

Churchill, speaking in commons debate, declared:

"We have broken our pledges to the Jews. Having found ourselves incapable of carrying out our promises, we have no right to say that we have to stay there for motives of honor.

"If there is no call to honor, then the responsibility of stopping civil war in Palestine between Jews and Arab ought to be borne by the United Nations and not by this poor, overburdened and heavily-injured country."

(Britain, which conquered Palestine from the Turks in the First World War, administers it under a 1922 mandate from the League of Nations, held by some to have expired. Churchill made a similar proposal last fall, but Britain under the Labor government has shown no disposition to leave Palestine.)

As the debate raged in the commons, Jewish sources in London expressed "shock" at the government's evacuation plan. Arabs here for conferences welcomed the step.

Churchill asked that the government make every effort to avoid "squalid warfare with terrorists" in Palestine, with the United States and the rest of the world looking on. But he urged against bowing to intimidation by threats from the Palestine underground, declaring:

"If you are brought into a quarrel, pugnacity and will power cannot be dispensed with. It is a terrible thing to be drawn into a quarrel and to be cowed out of doing your duty.

"Good gracious me! How should we have got through our late strug-

Asks U.N. Speed Its Military Force

LAKE SUCCESS, (AP) — The United Nations must assure the world that they can maintain peace before a single gun is scrapped under a proposed 55-nation arms reduction program, a security council delegate said Friday.

This delegate said the first step toward such security would have to be the setting up of an international military force by the U. N.

Canada Wants German Pact Made by Installment Stages

OTTAWA, (CP)—Canada's preliminary views on the making of the peace with Germany were before the world Friday, with her vigorous assertion that she could not "isolate" herself from the momentous decisions in drafting the final peace settlement.

The dominion's position was made clear in a 450-word memorandum handed to the special deputies of the Big Four in London by Norman Robertson, Canadian high commissioner to Britain, who reiterated the dominion's demand for a larger part in the peace-making.

Would Limit Powers

The document said Canada believed Germany should be completely demilitarized and reconstituted on the basis of a federal system in which the powers of the central government would be strictly defined and limited to make it impossible to build up the resources necessary for war.

It also warned against the signing of an immediate peace treaty with Germany and recommended an installment method of drawing up an international statute which could govern the German state until a tried government could sign a treaty.

The memorandum was Canada's answer to the statement of the special deputies that they could not give her the assurance she had sought for a more active role in the peace settlement.

Opposition Gives Support

The document was tabled in the commons here by External Affairs Minister St. Laurent, who said Canada wanted only to make a contribution that would be in keeping with her contribution in the war.

Leaders of opposition parties expressed support for the government action.

The memorandum said: "The Canadian people cannot isolate themselves from this question of a German peace settlement.

"Their vital concern with wars originating in Europe has been demonstrated twice in a generation. The importance to Canada of a satisfactory settlement of the German problem is therefore obvious, for distance gives Canada no escape from the consequences of a bad peace."

SUSPECT SURRENDERS

NEW YORK, (AP) — David Krakauer, sought in a country-wide alarm on an indictment charging bribery and conspiracy in connection with the investigation into attempted fixing of a New York Giants — Chicago Bears professional football game, surrendered Friday at the district attorney's office.

Britain to Change Envoy in Poland

LONDON, (AP)—The foreign office announced Thursday night that Victor F. W. Cavendish-Bentinck, British ambassador to Poland, will be promoted soon to another post. In Warsaw an informant close to the Polish government said it considered the ambassador "recalled" because of embarrassing testimony at the treason trial of Count Kawery Grocholski.

The ambassador was named by a witness in the recent Warsaw trial of Count Grocholski as the recipient of state secrets supplied by a member of a Polish underground organization. The foreign office here denied any implication that Cavendish-Bentinck had plotted against the present Communist-dominated Warsaw regime.

Doubt U.S. Sale Of Alberta Coal

OTTAWA, (CP) — The Royal commission on coal painted a somewhat bleak picture of prospective United States markets for Canadian coal in its report to parliament Friday.

"There is," it commented, "a widespread belief that there exists a large potential market for Alberta coal in the adjoining states of Montana and North Dakota. A survey reveals that this belief involves a serious misunderstanding of the market situation in that area.

"The coal requirements of these states are not large for the area is not highly industrialized. Moreover most urban areas in Montana are well served by natural gas and central Montana is supplied by hydro-electricity generated on the Missouri river . . ."

For these and other reasons it was "abundantly clear that any hopes of a large market for prairie-mined coal in the adjacent United States is without reasonable foundation."

IMPOUND REFUGEE SHIP

LE HAVRE, (AP)—Port authorities here impounded an 800-ton Honduran vessel bearing 600 Jewish refugees bound for Palestine Thursday and refused to permit it to continue its voyage. The vessel arrived a few days ago from Sweden.

The Weather

Forecast: Clear today, occasionally cloudy tomorrow. Winds west 15 m.p.h. decreasing to light this evening.

Frigid air is becoming stagnant across the prairies with decreasing winds. The "worst" of the cold wave has been reached in Alberta but not yet in Saskatchewan. However no real relief is in sight and the weather will continue cold for at least another 36 hours.

Victoria, B.C., reported a minimum of 10 above.

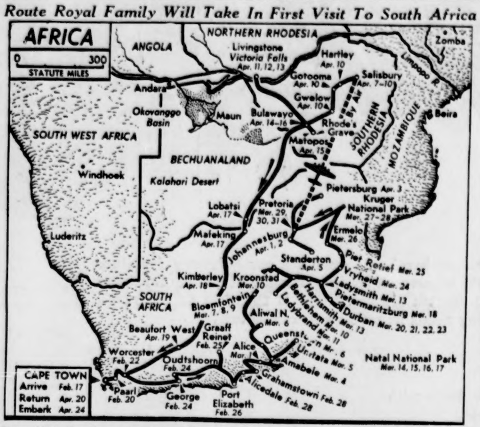
The present cold wave is being experienced in all Canada except the most easterly portion.

Estimated low tonight, 40 below. Estimated high tomorrow, 30 below.

At Edmonton Saturday, sun rises 8:21; sets 5:16.

Yesterday's maximum, 28 below.
Overnight low, 39 below.
Snowfall, .5 of an inch.

Route Royal Family Will Take In First Visit To South Africa



Heavy black line traces the route the royal family will take during a tour of South Africa and Southern Rhodesia in February. The royal party will sail Saturday from Portsmouth aboard H.M.S. Vanguard, Britain's newest and mightiest battleship, for a 16-day voyage to Cape Town, where the 10,000-mile tour by train, motor car and airplane will start on Feb. 17 and end on April 24. The 6,500-mile sea voyage will be the royal family's first post-war voyage and the first time the two princesses will have left the British Isles.

Freight Subventions, Tariff Aid, Federal Coal Board Recommended

OTTAWA, (CP) — Continuance of the pre-war federal coal policy—freight subventions and tariff protection—was proposed to the dominion government in the report of the royal commission on coal tabled Friday in the commons.

The 300,000-word report of the commission, more than two years in the making and long-awaited as the possible key to rehabilitation of Canada's coal industry, laid down this formula in its majority finding:

1. Payment of transportation subventions on the general basis of the 1930's to enable Canadian fuel—from the east and west—to push its way into central Canada markets against the competition of United States coal.

2. Continuance of—but no increase in—the prevailing tariffs against outside coal.

The report dashes any hopes for 100 percent Canadian self-sufficiency in coal, and advises against nationalization of the industry.

Administration of measures for aiding the industry, the commission recommended, should be carried out by a new federal coal board which would have wide authority in administering assistance to the industry, except in the formulation of general policy.

Implementation of the report calls for no basic change in government policy on coal. With the expiration of the system of wartime subsidies

MacArthur Kills Japanese Strike

TOKYO, (AP)— Gen. MacArthur killed a Japanese general strike Friday with an order saying "I will not permit the use of so deadly a social weapon" in the prostrate nation.

Five hours after the order was issued, and four hours before the midnight strike deadline which was to have pulled 2,400,000 government workers off their jobs, the Tokyo central strike committee, composed of left wing labor leaders, announced it had "decided to call off" the strike.

Earlier, leaders of the strike which would have crippled almost the entire Japanese economy, had indicated they would ignore the supreme commander's order.

A recognized cabinet of conservatives with six new ministers included in it, took office two hours after Gen. MacArthur had issued the order.

Russia Opposing Plan for Germany

LONDON, (AP)—Moscow radio Friday stepped up its propaganda broadcast against British-American proposals for reorganization of beaten Germany into a federation of small states, as the Big Four with their task of drafting German and Austrian peace treaties.

The Soviet radio pushed a Russian plan for "economic and political unity" of Germany and charged that the United States and Britain were seeking "permanent Anglo-American guidance in German political life."

The deputies themselves, meanwhile, were embroiled in an argument over Yugoslav charges that an Austrian delegate appearing before the council to oppose Yugoslav claims for parts of Austrian Carinthia should be banned on the ground he had "Nazi connections."

A Yugoslav note made the charge against Hans Piesch, governor of Carinthia, who appeared with Austrian chancellor Leopold Figl and other Austrian leaders to plead for easier peace terms on the ground their country was Nazidom's first victim and not a willing Axis partner.

Piesch denied he had any influence with the Nazis when he took over as governor of Carinthia in 1945.

The deputies took no action on the Yugoslav charges Thursday.

DENY FRANCO WOUNDED

MADRID, (AP) — A French report that Generalissimo Franco had been wounded in a recent attempt on his life was flatly denied by a foreign office spokesman, who said the Spanish caudillo was enjoying perfect health.

Cold Prevents State Procession As Royal Family Leaves for Africa

LONDON, (AP)—England bade farewell for 3½ months Friday to the royal family as they boarded the battleship Vanguard for a 16-day voyage to South Africa.

Travelling by special train to Portsmouth, Their Majesties the King and Queen and Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose embarked amid a ceremonial display by the R.A.F., Royal Navy and picked military units.

Vanguard, newest and largest of Britain's battle fleet, is to leave Portsmouth before dawn Saturday.

Because of the cold wave, the King and Queen cancelled plans for a state drive from Buckingham Palace to Waterloo station, disappointing many pomp-loving Londoners and visitors.

Large numbers of people gathered along the 75-mile stretch from London to Portsmouth to bid them farewell.

It will be the royal family's first trip of any consequence since their visit to Canada in 1939. The project—though gay enough in many ways—is not considered generally to be viewed merely as a holiday.

It is reasoned the visit might well determine whether the United party of South African Prime Minister Smuts—a Commonwealth supporter, but up against opposition—shall remain in power.

Dalton Says Britain Intends Full Nationalization of Land

LONDON.—At the end of a two-day debate on the town and country planning bill Thursday night, a crowded commons heard Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton say "we are moving toward nationalization of the land, and not by slow steps."

Chancellor Dalton's words came just before the house divided on the second reading of the bill. On the division the opposition mustered 150 votes against the government's 342.

Few new arguments either for or against the measure were advanced. The Conservative spokesman stuck to their original contention that while the bill's general provisions to ensure that all future building and use of land is planned on a nation-wide basis, provision for compensation and levies in respect of land values which are changed by planning requirements is unjust. However, conservatives declared frankly there is much that is good in the bill.

Mr. Dalton said nobody could accurately assess how much money would be needed to compensate landowners. But he conceded the state was getting, "all the development values of the land" and confessed he regarded it a good bargain.

On one major point of issue Mr. Dalton hinted the government may be willing to make some concession later. For compensation purposes, all land is being considered at its 1939 value, which in general is no more than half 1947 price.

"There might be a case for some amendment of this in the committee stage of the bill" he remarked.

CENSOR ELECTION DISPATCHES

RIO DE JANEIRO, (AP)—Djalma Maranhao, Associated Press correspondent at Natal, reported Thursday that his telegrams on the recent election in the state of Rio Grande Do Norte still were held by censorship and that he had been arrested and held for six hours on a charge of attempting to send a "tendentious and alarming" dispatch.

Fritzsche Is Given 9 Years in Prison

MUNICH, Germany, (AP)—German de-Nazification courts Friday sentenced Hans Fritzsche, former Nazi broadcaster, Heinrich Hoffman, personal photographer to Hitler, to long terms at hard labor for aiding the Hitler regime.

Fritzsche, aide to Propaganda Minister Goebbels, was acquitted last November by the international military tribunal which tried top-ranking Nazis. The German court in Nuernberg, however, sentenced him to nine years.

Hoffman was sentenced to 10 years and the loss of a personal fortune of about $800,000, for being Hitler's personal cameraman for nearly 25 years. The prosecution said Hoffman was to pictures what "Goebbels and Hans Fritzsche were by word of mouth"—top propagandists for the Nazi party.

Predict Increase Old Age Pensions

TORONTO, (CP)—The Globe and Mail said in an Ottawa dispatch Friday that an increase in old age pensions "across the board" is expected from legislation to be introduced in the commons.

The dispatch added:

"It is understood that increases ranging from five to 15 percent of the present federal government contributions have been under consideration, and presumably these higher contributions would be made conditional on the money being passed (by the provinces) on to the pensioners."

ASK SEPARATE RUHR

PARIS, (AP)—A foreign ministry official said Thursday that an official outline of French proposals for the Ruhr, to be sent to Britain, the United States and Russia next week, will demand both political and economic separation of the industrial Ruhr from Germany.

Peak of Bitter Weather Said Reached Friday

When Edmonton thermometers reached a winter's record low of 39 below zero at 8:30 a.m. Friday, the peak of Alberta's cold weather spell was reached, the Edmonton weather office reported at noon Friday.

But with two district men dead as result of the three-day cold snap, an Edmonton school girl suffering suspected frosted lungs, cattle dying in the fields and the entire province fighting to keep moving and warm, the danger point was not passed. The weather office warned that no relief was in sight for at least another 36 hours—or until late Saturday or early Sunday.

In the city householders and plumbers fought to overcome a wave of frozen waterpipes. Most workers managed to get to their jobs Friday. Street cars and taxis performed outstanding service. Shoppers were few.

Newest Alberta death attributed to the cold spell was that of aged Frank Hood, who perished in a fire near McQuarrie, 130 miles northeast of Edmonton, about 7:00 p.m. Thursday. Twelve hours earlier Stanley Harris, 86, died in a fire which destroyed his log cabin at Boyle, 95 miles north of Edmonton. Both fires were attributed to cold which caused overheated stoves.

While hundreds of Edmontonians suffered frost bites of varying minor degrees, city hospitals reported no frost-bite cases brought into their wards, as citizens stayed indoors as much as possible, and only ventured out-of-doors when wrapped like Eskimos.

One exception was 15-year-old Steffie Sedor, of 12510 50 st., who is suspected to be suffering from frosted lungs.

A student at Eastwood high school, the girl had 16 blocks to walk to catch a car to school. She collapsed in a school cloakroom Thursday afternoon, and her teacher discovered she had frozen hands and legs. After a two-hour absence from class, while she rested and obtained medical aid, Miss Sedor said she was all right to proceed home. She was away from classes Friday, and frosted lungs are suspected.

In rural Alberta, farmers in every area were losing cattle and stock, which were dying in the fields from the cold. Cattle shipments were down, and were expected to stay down until warmer weather comes. Ranchers and cattlemen in many areas said they did not see how stock could survive the cold any longer, as feed is low in many parts and cattle are marooned by drifts.

Figures Will Show Citizens Are Hardy

Edmontonians must be hardy persons, in the opinion of Dr. T. G. How, head of the dominion meteorological service in Edmonton, for it takes pretty good stuff to survive in the sudden fluctuations of the weather.

He pointed out that last Saturday the high was 37 above zero, while the overnight low Thursday—less than a week later—was 39.4 degrees below zero, or a drop of 76.4 degrees.

Dr. How said the dangerous point in exposing the human body to the elements was set at a "chill rating" of 1,600 and the chill rating Friday was 2,201. Chill rating is calculated by taking temperature, humidity and wind velocity into account.

Rose Is Unseated; Byelection Ordered

OTTAWA, (CP) — Without a mumur of dissent, the commons Thursday declared vacant the Montreal-Cartier seat of Fred Rose, the 39-year-old Labor-Progressive member now serving six years for his part in a Russian conspiracy to gather information illegally in Canada.

While Rose sat in his cell in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, outside Montreal, the lower chamber approved a resolution presented by Prime Minister King at the opening sitting of parliament.

Simultaneously, it directed that a writ be issued for the election of a new member, raising vacancies in the 245-seat commons to two and eliminating Labor-Progressive representation in the Canadian parliament.

Thursday's actions marked the end of the parliamentary trail—at least temporarily—for a man found guilty by a Montreal jury last year of conspiring to communicate confidential information to Russia in violation of the Official Secrets act. Evidence indicated that he was one of two leading Canadian recruiting agents for a Russian military network of espionage, the other being the now-vanished Sam Carr, former national organizer of the Labor-Progressive party.

Canada Donated 4 Billions in Aid

OTTAWA, (CP)—Canada, in addition to financing her multi-billion dollar war effort, contributed close to $4,000,000,000 worth of supplies, foods and war materials to warring United Nations and liberated countries, it was disclosed Friday.

The Canadian Mutual Aid board's final report, tabled in the commons by Reconstruction Minister Howe, showed that materials and supplies furnished the United Nations under the Mutual Aid act alone from Sept 1, 1943, to Sept. 1, 1945, totalled $2,471,212,000.

Of the total, $2,112,150,000 went to the United Kingdom. The remainder, in varying amounts, went to Australia, the British West Indies, China, France, Greece, India, New Zealand and Russia.

In addition to mutual aid, Canada made a $1,000,000,000 gift to the United Kingdom, contributed $154,000,000 to UNRRA, provided $95,000,000 in military relief and gave Greece $19,000,000 worth of wheat.

Probe Disturbance By Dutch Marines

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, (AP) — A high Dutch navy source said Thursday night that trouble has arisen at Port Said, Egypt, among 200 Dutch marines en route from the Netherlands to the Dutch East Indies aboard the 14,134-ton troop transport Boissevain.

The informant said that "mutiny is too big a word" to describe the incident.

Meanwhile, a lieutenant colonel and six sergeants left the Netherlands by plane for the Middle East to investigate the situation.

Winter Storms Hit Continent Taking Heavy Toll of Lives

Canadians and Americans shivered under the onslaught of intense cold waves and a lashing wind Friday, as a huge Arctic air mass swept almost the entire continent, causing at least 25 deaths in the U.S. and a number in Canada.

As winter shook out every trick in its bag, temperatures dropped to far below freezing at the majority of Canadian points and in the U.S. there were tornadoes, high-velocity winds, blinding snow storms, sleet and freezing rain.

As thermometers dropped steadily from the Rockies to the Ontario border in the face of the Arctic mass which Thursday set a North American record of 78.7 below zero at Snag, Yukon, the west coast still was reeling from the effects of a near-hurricane which caused $1000,000 damage on land and sea. The temperature in Vancouver and Victoria hovered around the five above mark.

Storm at Coast

Pounding seas tore out a 90-foot concrete section of the Second Beach swimming pool in Stanley park. Power supply in some areas was interrupted and air lines cancelled flights.

Capt. E. L. James of the Fraser river lightship was forced to abandon his vessel for the first time in 23 years as heavy seas threatened to destroy the vessel.

Saskatchewan Hit

In Saskatchewan, a biting blizzard Friday tied up practically all road and about 50 percent of rail transportation with a 40-mile-an-hour wind accompanying temperatures down to 25 below zero. Already crippled by a series of severe storms, railway lines in Saskatchewan were reported operating under extreme difficulties. The C.N.R. cancelled schedules in the Regina area until the blizzard subsides.

The slow-moving Arctic air mass was scheduled to hit Manitoba during the day, and at midday the temperature was dropping. Overnight low in Winnipeg was 4 below.

Snowplows and road graders worked steadily in practically every section of Ontario to clear highways and to restore transportation service. As communications came to a virtual standstill, Torontonians struggled to clear blocks of snow from around homes. The snow was declared extremely hard to move. It was granular in substance, and rolled off of shovels like peas. People said it was more like a heavy hail that hadn't melted.

Maritime weather was balmy in spots. The thermometers ranged from a low of 19 above at Moncton, N. B., to a high of 41 above at Yarmouth, N. S.

Hardest hit areas in the U. S., were sections of Alabama, Arkansas and Missouri, swept by separate tornadoes. Heavy snow ranging up to 16 inches tied up transportation in central and lower Michigan, southern Wisconsin, north and central Illinois, southern Minnesota and Nebraska.

Brown Snow Falls

A storm which stirred up dust in the Texas panhandle caused brown snow to fall in Chicago and brown rain to fall in Cincinnati.

The tornadoes and lashing winds in the central and mid-western states caused untold damage and most of the 25 deaths. Scores were injured.

As the Arctic mass moved south and east, clinging in one section to the eastern slope of the continental divide, the mercury in states immediately south of Alberta began to record low readings, such as the 25 below zero reported at Cutbank, Mont. Blizzard warnings were issued to stockmen as the air mass was expected to spread out to western plains states late Friday and Saturday.

Wyoming and Colorado were in the path of the mass.

Temperature, Wind Tell Chill Story

Humans Leave Long Vapor Trail When Moving in 72-Below Weather

Weird things happen in a community when the temperature drops to 78.7 below zero. Although reports Friday were fairly vague, this was said to be the reaction Thursday in Snag, on the Alaska-Yukon boundary, when that tiny settlement reported the coldest weather ever recorded on the North American continent.

Long vapor trails from the human breath and the eerie experience of greatly increased audibility were two of the outdoor phenomena reported from Snag during the record cold spell. There were not many such reports because when it gets down into the 70's most activity is restricted to indoors. But with adequate clothing some outdoor work continued at this point on the White river, where an emergency airport and meteorological stations are maintained.

Weather service officials in Snag reported constant ice fog around the area which reduced visibility far below normal during the cold snap. Increase in audibility produced one of the strangest effects, it was reported. Ordinary sounds from an Indian village three miles away could be heard plainly at the air strip.

"One's breath froze immediately with a hissing sound and remained suspended in the air for several minutes before disappearing," reported Gordon M. Toole, weather observer in Snag. "It was a unique experience to see a vapor trail several hundred yards long pursuing one as he moved about outside."

About 15 R.C.A.F. men there and the group of six transport department radio operators and three meteorologists were reported "comfortable enough indoors." Fuel consumption zoomed in barracks. There were several cases of frostbite and after only three or four minutes outside, men returned with cheeks, nose or ears nipped, reports indicated.

Report from Mayo weather station told of a woodcutter who did not know it was 72-below there and he walked eight miles to the town of Mayo. Parts of his face were frozen slightly. The Mayo report said such severe cold has no depressing mental effect. Such weather gives everyone something to talk about which tends to "improve their state of mind," it was claimed.

In Edmonton an airman, who has lived in temperatures 70-below, Friday summed up the Snag-type weather this way: "If you're smart you'll stay in bed."

Britain Expects Still More Snow

LONDON, (CP)—Slightly warmer temperatures were promised for Britain Friday but weather experts said further heavy falls of snow would sweep most of England before the worst winter weather within memory of most living Britons breaks.

So topsy-turvy were conditions that:

One train from Penzance, Cornwall, to London—300 miles—ran 17 hours behind schedule.

Seagulls froze to death near Plymouth.

London butchers had heaters on full blast in their refrigerators in an attempt to thaw meat for customers.

From many areas in Britain came reports of villages isolated by snow, and of sheep and cattle buried by drifts sometimes 20 feet deep.

Candles were used for light—even for heat—in many London offices as gas and electricity companies were forced to impose the severest cuts in recent years. Whole areas were blacked out when generators failed to keep pace with the huge electricity demand.

Report Coal Industry Return In 15 Years 10 Cents Per Ton

OTTAWA, (CP) — The Canadian coal industry has had a return of approximately 10 cents a short ton over the last 15 years, the royal commission on coal reported Friday.

Its report, tabled in the commons, found clear indication "that the operations of the industry as a whole have not been too profitable."

It added:

"Involving an investment which at the end of 1944 amounted to approximately $83,000,000 and in respect of sales of 180,000,000 tons over the period, the industry has had a return of approximately 10 cents per short ton.

"While this is the over-all result, a geographical distribution of these figures shows that the Maritime companies sold 52 percent of the coal and only made a net profit of one-third cent per ton while the western companies (Saskatchewan to British Columbia) sold 48 percent and realized a profit of 19½ cents per ton. These figures are before any provision for depletion," the commission reported.

Subsidies Included

The commission said the results included subsidies from the Emergency Coal Production board and other governmental assistance totalling about $15,000,000 on which approximately $13,800,000 was paid to the Maritime companies and $1,200,000 to the western firms.

"If the operating results are considered before the application of the subsidies, the operations of the Maritime companies would have resulted in a loss of 14½ cents per ton while the profits of the western companies would have been reduced to 18 cents per ton. It is only fair to observe that subsidies paid by the emergency board were in considerable measure due to the wartime price ceiling policy.

"The most important yardstick for ascertaining the cost per ton is the man-day production and the larger man-day production by the western mines is the main contributing factor to the drastically-different operating results.

Better In West

"A very general review will indicate that the western companies have had a favorable operating experience, the most satisfactory of which was enjoyed by the bitiminous operators in Alberta and eastern British Columbia. The record of the domestic mines in Alberta is varied.

"Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited, the major producer in British Columbia, has had only a fair operating record. The operations in the Nicola-Princeton field over a long period of years have been unfavorable. Saskatchewan operations, on the whole, have progressed, the major operator carrying on strip mining and although receiving production subsidy during the war period can be regarded as a successful operation.

"Minto operations in New Brunswick, carried on to meet a localized demand, received only limited assistance by way of transportation subventions. During the war period, however, all of the companies in this field have received financial assistance by way of production subsidies from the emergency board.

Required Assistance

"The operations in Nova Scotia have particularly required the assistance of transportation subventions. The war produced many conditions that were particularly difficult for Nova Scotia. Their cost of production was always high but was neutralized to some extent by the low cost of using the St. Lawrence waterway to eastern markets. There difficulties, therefore, became quite pronounced when the exigencies of war precluded that traditional movement of their coal."

RUBBER RESEARCH GRANT

VANCOUVER, (CP)—Believed to be the only Canadian physicist searching for better synthetic rubber, Dr. Otto Bluh of the University of British Columbia has been awarded a $2,530 grant by the National Research council to continue his work. The grant is an addition to $11,000 already advanced by the council.

John C. Scott, New York war veteran who is now known as "Honest John" by the U.S. pensions office because of the fight he is putting up to stop the government from giving him a pension. Cheques keep coming to "Honest John" in payment for a partial disability—a permanent injury to his right eye—and Scott insists he doesn't want the pension cheques as the injury occurred prior to the war. He has even seen his congressman in an effort to stop the pension.

See Possible Advantages In Mechanizing of Mines

OTTAWA, (CP) — The improved market conditions of the war period and recent experimental work with machinery have placed coal-producing companies in the inner foothills belt of Alberta "in a better position to measure the merits of more extensive mechanization," the royal commission on coal noted Friday.

The operators in that belt were "keenly aware of the necessity of improving their competitive position by adopting the most modern machinery and techniques where these can be applied. . ."

Of the outer foothills belt, the commission said "the productivity of the mines could be improved by increased mechanization and it is apparent from their recent initiative that the operators realize the necessity of securing this improvement."

In the plains region, it was "possible that a substantial improvement in productivity would be secured if mobile loaders were used. This can only be established after experimentation and possibly adaptation of the machinery to suit the conditions of the field. This experimentation is essential if the mines are to maintain their competitive position.

"The introduction of increased mechanization and the trend in demand for smaller-sized coal for automatic stokers will undoubtedly require a provision for more adequate preparation facilities," the commission added.

Of the Edmonton area, it found that "there is little doubt that the productivity of the mines in this area could be improved by further mechanization, with particular reference to loading machines and conveyers. These might be used in entries in the summer months and transferred to the working faces during the busy winter months. The operators have to weigh the advantages to be gained from this capital investment."

Suggest Study of Possibility Pensions Plan for Miners

By H. R. Hardy

OTTAWA.—The rate of accidental death among coal miners is higher than in any other occupation of similar size and nature, according to the report of the royal commission on coal tabled in the commons Friday. An average of 68 men have been killed by accidents in Canadian coal mines in each of the last 24 years. The incidence of death by accident among coal miners is more than three times that for all Canadian males aged 20 to 64 years.

Housing in coal mining communities, asserts the commission, has a "bad reputation" but, except as to Nova Scotia, it is difficult to evaluate this reputation.

Among coal miners in Canada the only ones eligible for a pension arising out of their employment are the employes of the Dominion Coal company and the Old Sydney Collieries the report says. Elsewhere in Canada the coal miner is dependent on his own savings or upon the federal old age pension to provide for the years when he can no longer earn his living.

Urging Pension Plan

Both district 18 and district 26, reported the commission, had advocated an industry-wide pension plan to be financed jointly by the employes, operators and the government.

"A plan of this nature," reported the commission, "would assist in the recruitment of men for the industry by providing the sense of security which is lacking in the minds of the mine workers today. Moreover it might improve industrial relations in the industry, as the contributions of the operators would help to convince the miners of the operators' interest in their welfare."

Agreeing that there might be difficulties in creating adequate pensions based in earnings when these fluctuate as widely as they do in the coal mining industry, the commission felt that the difficulties were not "insuperable".

"We are of the opinion," they reported," that an immediate study should be made of the practicability of a three-way pension plan covering all mine workers and that every effort should be made to implement such a scheme."

Would Improve Standard

From the viewpoint of the men, the commission felt, the chief problem was to improve or at least maintain their standard of living. Coal miners depended not only on wage rates, but also on the number of days work available per man per year.

From the point of view of industry, the significance of the recent wage increases is their effort on the cost structure. Labor cost per ton as shown by some operators more than doubled between 1939 and 1944.

Since 1922, the report continued, the first year for which such information is available, the average for Canada of annual earnings of coal miners first exceeded $1,400 in 1941, while in the five years 1931 to 1935 the average ran below $1,000 in each year, being just over $800 in 1933. In 14 of the 24 years covered the average was $1,200 or over.

Third Earn Over $2,000

By 1944 a third of the mine workers in Canada were earning over $2,000; in the western "steam" coal fields the proportion was 43 percent.

Until 1942 not one percent of the coal miners in Canada earned $3,000 and over; in 1944 the proportion was four percent in western "steam" coal fields, and two percent for all Canada.

Find West Needs More Oil Fields

By H. R. Hardy

OTTAWA.—Oil supplies in the next decade will be neither inadequate nor much more expensive than they have been for Canadians to date, according to the report of the royal commission on coal tabled in the commons Friday.

In assessing the petroleum industry, in its relation to the coal industry the commission reported that only on the prairie is there any indication that the supply problem will be serious, and there only if no important new oil fields are discovered.

The Turner Valley and Montana oil fields, as now developed, are inadequate to meet current requirements on the prairies, the report says. Prairie refineries thus have to go to Wyoming and mid-continental fields with corresponding high transportation costs. Failing new discoveries of oil on the prairies, oil will be appreciably more expensive than before the war.

The commission reported that insofar as Canadian requirements are concerned, the Caribbean is likely to become an increasingly important source.

In pre-war years, explains the commission, Alberta oil production was adequate to supply prairie oil requirements as far east as Winnipeg. With the wartime increases in demand and the falling off in the Turner Valley output, domestic production was able to meet the demands of Alberta and the eastern fringe of British Columbia only. Saskatchewan and Manitoba refineries turned therefore to United States sources, first to Montana, then to Wyoming and Oklahoma fields, and on occasion even to Texas and Louisiana.

The Norman field, the commission believes, "is too remote to be of immediate importance in supplying the normal petroleum requirements of the prairie provinces."

Labor Relations Laws Proposed

OTTAWA, (CP) — Legislation dealing with labor relations was forecast in the speech from the throne at the opening of parliament Thursday and was regarded as the forerunner of the introduction of a national labor code measure.

Formulation of this bill has been in process for several months, and copies of draft legislation have been placed in the hands of provincial governments, labor organizations and management associations.

It contemplates, it is understood, a code which would give the government direct jurisdiction over such interprovincial industries as transportation and communication in the matter of labor relations. In addition, the federal government hopes that the provinces will use it as the basis for labor legislation of their own in the interests of uniformity across the country.

One of its major provisions, it is reported, is that greater responsibility would be placed on labor for adherence to its contractual responsibilities in working agreements.

Private Prosecutor Barred at Calgary

CALGARY, (CP) — Hugh C. Farthing, counsel for Philip Nickiford of Albert Park, charged with theft and retaining stolen property, won his argument that a private prosecutor could not appear against his client in a summary trial, but Crown Prosecutor M. H. Staples wants it understood a precedent has not been established in city police court.

Mr Farthing objected to R. R. Mitchell, C.P.R. barrister, appearing as private prosecutor. An adjournment was granted to allow the matter to be discussed with the attorney-general's department at Edmonton.

When the case was called again Wednesday Mr. Staples advised Magistrate Jensen that as a result of his telephone conversation with Deputy Attorney General H. J. Wilson he would personally act as prosecutor. He told the court it was still his own opinion Mr. Mitchell had a perfect right to act.

More By-Products Of Coal Doubted

OTTAWA, (CP) — Development of a coal by-product industry in Canada beyond the present crude articles manufactured was viewed dubiously by the royal commission on coal in its report made public Friday.

Such an industry, the report said, would be limited by the size of the coking and gas industry, and there was little prospect of expanding this source. Further, future development would depend largely on export markets, and the areas most suited for cheap manfacture of chemicals were not well situated for export.

However, the commissioners did suggest that the possibilities of manufacturing liquor fuel from coal should be investigated, though they saw a "serious impediment" in the cost of Canadian coal.

Jalisco, sparsely populated Mexican State, is trying to colonize its Pacific coast area by opening new roads and improving housing.

Cut Estimate Coal Reserves; Still Enough for 2,700 Years

OTTAWA, (CP) — The Royal commission on coal sharply reduced estimates of Canada's coal reserves Friday but announced there should be enough for the next 27 centuries.

The commission's report, tabled in parliament, said Canada possesses about 99,000,000,000 tons of mineable coal, about 49,000,000,000 tons of which is recoverable.

An estimate compiled by Dr. B. R. MacKay of the federal mines department indicated that "on the basis of the current level of production of coal in Canada, the reserves would be sufficient to allow for continued mining for over 2,700 years."

His total worked out at less than 10 percent of the only previous nation-wide estimate, one of 1,360,535,000,000 tons made in 1913, but there were several reasons for the difference. Actual operations and surveys had refuted some of the 1913 assumptions.

Not Considered Accurate

The 1913 estimate, again, was not confined to mineable coal and might now be considered "a reasonable approximation of coal occurring as a geological phenomenon in Canada." It could not be considered an accurate estimate from the standpoint of practical mining.

Dr. MacKay had worked on estimates prepared by provincial authorities and coal operators' associations as well as principal operators.

His figures were based on "mineable" coal or coal considered to exist in mineable thicknesses within a required distance from the surface; on "recoverable" coal or the coal that actually is liable finally to be extracted, which was assumed to be 50 percent of the mineable coal; on "probable" reserves or those which "can reasonably be expected to exist; and on "possible" reserves or coal whose recovery is problematical.

West Has 92 Percent

They indicated the three western provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia have 92 percent of the total. In relation to the 1913 estimate, the 1946 totals give Alberta 48 rather than 85 percent of the calculated reserves and replace British Columbia with Saskatchewan as the second largest holder.

The commission estimated that 15 percent of the reserves are of low volatile bituminous rank; about 31 percent of meduim volatile rank; 17 percent of high volatile bituminous rank; nine percent of subbituminous rank and 28 percent of lignitic rank.

Its summary of Alberta: "It is clear that Alberta has very extensive reserves of bituminous and subbituminous coals . . . Markets, rather than reserves, are the fundamental problem."

Twelve-year-old school boys in Schleswig-Holstein had never heard of the Ten Commandments, states an official report from the British zone in Germany.

Sees Little Competition For Coal by Atom Energy

OTTAWA, (CP)—The coal industry has "nothing to fear from atomic energy in the next 10 years and very little in the next 20" in the opinion of Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the National Research council.

But within 10 years it is possible that it will be used to power rockets to the moon, he said in a statement prepared for the royal commission on coal and made public Friday with its 663-page report to the government.

Dealing with energy's peacetime potentialities, it was a statement well qualified with contentions that atomic development was wide open to conjecture, that it would depend largely on the time and effort spent on it, and on the "attitude of governments."

With a "full knowledge of the danger of making estimates," Dr. Mackenzie ventured these predictions:

Within five years—no industrial use of atomic power except on a pilot plant scale for purely experimental purposes.

Within 10 years—limited use under special circumstances, where cost is not a consideration. Examples: military uses; rockets to the moon; very long-range aircraft; naval uses to give effectively unlimited cruising range; supply of power in remote areas such as the far north.

Within 15 years — considerable decrease in costs. Industrial uses beginning to develop. Price probably still high enough so that effect on coal is negligible.

Within 20 years—possibly costs beginning to approximate coal or hydro-electric power. New uses may well lead to increased power consumption, and hence are unlikely to decrease coal consumption.

Subventions, Aid by Tariffs, National Coal Board Urged and subventions later this year, it had been expected the government would revert in the normal course to its pre-war subvention basis.

The 663-page report, compiled at an estimated cost of $250,000, was tabled by Reconstruction Minister Howe.

A minority report filed by the labor union member of the commission—Angus J. Morrison of Calgary—agreed with the two majority supreme court justices on subventions and a coal board but termed their recommendations not "adequate" and added several more including:

1. Local adjustments to assist in marketing coal from specific areas—such as moving Alberta coal into northwestern Ontario—and to minimize seasonal letdowns in production.

2. Reduction of customs duties on mining machinery and supplies.

3. Retirement pension plans for miners, financed jointly by themselves, the operators and the government.

The majority report was signed by Mr. Justice Carroll of the Nova Scotia supreme court, commission chairman, and Mr. Justice McLaurin of the supreme court of Alberta.

Want Subsidies Continue

A "supplementary note" appended by Mr. Justice Carroll, and a clause of Mr. Morrison's report, proposed the federal government should continue for a limited time the wartime subsidies granted Nova Scotia mines under price ceiling controls, in order that the industry might adjust itself to peacetime conditions.

Mr. Morrison, secretary-treasurer of district 18 (western Canada) of the United Mine Workers of America, said the eastern coal industry was in danger of "collapse" if it did not get this additional aid.

But both he and Mr. Justice Carroll agreed this help should be contingent on the companies making efforts to increase productivity through increased production.

The majority report itself recommended that wartime subsidies generally should be eliminated when price controls expire. Mr. Justice Carroll added his supplementary note because, he said, Maritime coal might be at a disadvantage in the Montreal market for a time before production rose.

To Keep Price Down

The subsidies were granted early in the war to keep the price of coal under the ceiling when wage increases and cost-of-living bonuses were granted. Up to last March 31, the commission said, they amounted to $19,200,000 for eastern mines and $3,500,000 in the west.

In laying down their recomdations, all three commissioners—both in the majority and minority reports—rejected completely the idea of nationalization of the coal-mining industry.

"The evidence submitted to us fell far short of establishing that nationalization would result in higher productivity," the majority report declared.

"Nationalization," said Mr. Morrison in his minority report, "would not necessarily improve the position of the mines or prevent ultimate collapse of the industry. An unsound industry cannot survive indefinitely, and nationalization provides no magic lamp."

"Challenge" Is Seen

Rather, the labor commissioner saw in the condition of the depressed sections of the industry—notably in Nova Scotia—a challenge to private enterprise to use its initiative to get mining back on its feet, with the co-operation of the working personnel.

On the two basic recommendations in the majority report—subventions and tariffs—the commissioners proposed no definite figures as to just what amount of subvention should be paid, but they suggested specifically that the tariff scale should remain at its present level.

The duty on United States coal—chief competitor—is 75 cents a ton on bituminous and 50 cents on anthracite. Under the British preference, United Kingdom anthracite enters free.

On subventions, the commissioners summarized their ideas thus:

"It is our view that the assistance extended during the 1930's was reasonable, and in recommending a continuation of transportation subventions we urged that assistance must bear a reasonable relationship to the cost per ton of the imported coal that would otherwise be used."

Payments Shown

While the commission gave no figures for suggested subventions, it presented tables showing payments made regionally.

A typical year—1937—was a follows:

	TONS MOVED	COST
N.S.	1,908,000	$1,785,000
N.B.	41,000	32,000
Alta,, B.C., East	268,000	285,566
Sask.	146,000	38,000

During the middle and late 30's, the report said, movement of about 1,750,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal and 650,000 tons of western coal was aided annually at an average cost of about $1 a ton, or an average annual cost to the federal treasury of $2,400,000.

The direction of this spending was greatly altered by the impact of war. Maritime coal ceased to move into Ontario and shipments to Quebec were curtailed sharply. New disbursements were ordered to aid the movement of Nova Scotia coal within the Maritimes and, on changed terms, to promote its entry into Quebec. In 1944, 789,358 tons of Nova Scotia coal were thus aided to a total cost of $1,932,789.

Fell Off Heavily

Subventions to Alberta and Britisn Columbia (Crow's Nest) coal fell off heavily during the late war years after the coal controller prohibited shipments to Ontario, but they were resumed in 1945.

The peacetime figures were indicated by the commission as the basis for future government spending in this direction, but it laid down only broad, general terms within which the government might draft policy.

Declaring it was not practicable to fix subvention aid by statute because of varying factors in the competitive situation, the commission indicated the coal board—with a full-time chairman—should have considerable leeway in advising on and administering subvention.

"The fixing of appropriate conditions and the administering of assistance is an assignment of considerable responsibility," it declared.

"Up to the present, transportation subventions have been administered by the Dominion Fuel board . . . We feel that the effectiveness of the Dominion Fuel board has been limited by the other demands on its (civil service) members.

"Accordingly, we recommend that a statutory board be created with a full-time chairman to keep Canada's energy requirements under continuous review and to advise upon and administer transportation subsidies."

Think Cost Too High

On the question of making Canada self-sufficient as to coal production, the commission found it would be physically possible but would cost too much—about an additional $100,000,000 annually.

To achieve independence from outside coal, Canadian mines would have to produce 43,000,000 tons per year, more than double the 1945 output of 16,000,000 tons, the commission said.

The commission estimated the laid-down cost of coal in central Canada at this production rate would be $5 a ton more than American fuel.

"Central Canada must therefore continue to rely mainly on United States sources of supply," the commission commented.

It was in the national interest to assist the movement of a certain proportion of eastern and western coal into central Canada, the commissioners said.

Assistance Favored

"Having regard to the advantages accruing to Ontario and Quebec under Canada's fiscal policy," the majority report said, "assistance to the coal industry in addition to the present tariff is only fair."

Mr. Morrison made a similar recommendation, declaring the present Dominion Fuel board was hampered in its work by regulations.

He suggested these functions for the proposed new body:

1. Administration of transportation subventions.

2. Administration of any direct subsidies extended by the Canadian government to promote the coal industry.

3. Research into marketing problems and techniques.

4. Technical research on coal mining methods and development of new uses for coal.

5. Co-ordination of the activities of other government departments relating to coal.

6. Advice to the government on policy respecting coal production, distribution and use.

On Original Basis

While the report laid down no rules by which subventions should be paid, it apparently felt the payments should be made on their original basis: that is, to the railway companies, which in turn would pass on the benefit to the mining operators indirectly by lowering the freight charges on coal heading for specific areas.

Direct payments to operators in the form of subsidies has disadvantages, the report stated. One was that they gave assistance to the marketing of coal in areas where it would be competitive without help. Another was that, as they were necessarily administered during the war, high-cost producers received most of the assistance and some producers received none.

In Nova Scotia alone, at least 100,000 people were dependent, directly or indirectly, on coal. Without additional aid, the industry would be unable to support that number, "with resulting social and economic dislocation."

"Some dislocation in other coal areas in Canada must also be anticipated if additional assistance is not provided" the commissioners added.

A further argument was that it was in the national interest to encourage as widespread a distribution of industry as possible. The concluding argument was that maintenance of good production would be of special value in times of emergency.

The majority report, however, said the commissioners did not wish to suggest that freight subventions should be made available to aid the recapture of markets which before the war were served by producers without assistance.

"Operators throughout Canada should not be encouraged to rely on subventions if improved methods of production will lower costs," they observed.

"Separate Industries"

In his minority report, Commissioner Morrison declared operations in the five main coal zones of the country should be treated as separate industries, each with different problems requiring specific solutions.

He listed these as: Nova Scotia-New Brunswick; Alberta (with British Columbia's Crowsnest) "steam" coal mines; Alberta "domestic" coal mines; Saskatchewan; and Vancouver Island.

Here is a summary of his findings for two of the zones:

Alberta—B.C.

The production situation in these mines is good, but the problem is marketing. Chief buyer is the national railways, whose demand fluctuates with prairie agriculture. The difficulty would be met if the railways would plan purchases on a long-term basis so product ion could be stabilized. If necessary, the government should grant support "of the same nature" as that now extended to promote the stability of marketing of agricultural products.

Adequate subventions also should be paid to ensure the competitive position of western steam coal in given areas, and these should be on a long-term, rather than a year-to-year, basis.

Alberta Domestic

Demand varies according to crop conditions and the resultant ability of the western population to buy coal, variable winter weather and other seasonal factors. Mines have to be organized to serve peak demands but in pre-war years sometimes had to close several months a year for lack of demand.

The market area must be enlarged, for which freight subventions are "essential." These should be extended to enable the marketing of Alberta domestic coal competitively in northwestern Ontario. They should be made available on a seasonal basis to ensure the placing of new production demands on the mines in the season when they are largely closed down. The operators also should set up a central selling agency.

The benefit of these measures would accrue chiefly to the Drumheller, Lethbridge, Coalspur and Saunders fields. The Edmonton field does not ship heavily to outside markets, and stabilizing of operations there depends largely on developing a year-around demand in the area it now serves.

Wants "Re-casting"

In his recommendation on subventions, Mr. Morrison said there must be a "complete re-casting" of the administration of this assistance. Administration up to now had been "somewhat unsatisfactory he said. Assistance had varied greatly from year to year. And there had never been any guarantee that markets developed through subventions one year would be given help next year.

"This has prevented long-term development of new markets with any assurance to consumers or operators of continuity of supply on a competitive basis," the minority commissioner declared.

Sometimes, Mr. Morrison said, justified subvention claims were thrown out "merely by the accident that subvention claims filed previously by operators in other parts of the country had exhausted the funds voted for subventions."

He proposed that a "consistent" policy be developed, provided with "adequate" finances, and that advance commitments be available to enable producers to plan their sales and develop new customers.

Wants Better Conditions

Mr. Morrison made an appeal for the improvement of working and social conditions for the miners. Housing and community facilities in many localities reflected "no great credit on the industry." Government and employers should recognize that, if men were to remain in mining, the welfare of employes must receive more attention, he said.

He recommended "strongly" the creation of industry-wide retirement pension plans. They should be financed jointly by the men, operators and governments.

"Provincial government contributions to such funds could be made from royalties the provincial governments now collect on coal mined," Mr. Morrison concluded.

Some Highlights Of Coal Report

Workers of America).

A coal board should be established.

• • •

Transportation subventions should be reorganized and extended.

• • •

Local adjustments should be made to help in marketing coal from specific areas and to minimize such factors as seasonal fluctuations.

• • •

Retirement pension plans for miners should be instituted.

• • •

Provincial governments should take immediate action to eliminate "closed camps"—company communities in western Canada in which operators control affairs tightly.

General

Little expectations exist of developing large-scale synthetics and chemicals manufacture from coal in Canada.

• • •

Average return to Canadian operators from coal mining in the last 15 years has been 10 cents a short ton.

• • •

Development of atomic energy won't threaten the coal industry for between 10 and 20 years.

• • •

Canada's coal reserves are estimated at 99,000,000,000 tons, enough to last 2,700 years.

Women Ordered To Quit Palestine

gle if we had allowed our will power to be influenced in this way?"

Col. Oliver Stanley, colonial secretary in Churchill's wartime cabinet, opened the debate. He said Britain should clear out of Palestine and tell the people she could not carry out her mandate rather than suffer any more humiliation like the kidnapping of Judge Ralph Windham and Maj. H. A. I. Collins last week-end.

For 18 months Britain has had no policy in Palestine, Stanley said. "Our troops do not know who are their enemies or where they are."

Stanley urged the government to re-establish British authority as an essential preliminary to any final settlement.

"I cannot believe it possible that the terrorist organization could continue if the Jewish agency, and through it their leaders and Jewish community, were giving real active co-operation to the forces who are attempting to suppress it," he said.

Foreign Secretary Bevin made an urgent call upon Arab delegates to the Palestine conference Thursday to revise their proposals for the future of the Holy Land, but apparently got nowhere.

Jewish spokesmen announced they had made known to Bevin that they definitely were opposed to placing the Palestine problem before the United Nations in which Arab states have six members.

Cold Costs Lives Two in District

have been forced to close through lack of railway cars. It is the second time in a month that storms have tied up so many cars in eastern Canada that Drumheller mines have had to stop production and await movement of mined coal.

Bus travel throughout the province was carrying on, in a greatly reduced manner. Bitter winds had drifted roads in many sections, but out from Edmonton most roads were open. Travelling salesmen in rural areas were all stalled at country hotels, as car travel, unless absolutely necessary, was dangerous.

Frank Hood, an old age pensioner, was burned when the house on the mink ranch of which he is co-owner one mile west of McQuarrie was destroyed by fire Thursday night. A. Verrier and Albert Limobes discovered the blaze but could not save the man.

When flames subsided, they recovered Hood's body from the ruins. District Coroner Dr. Ayott went to the scene of the fire and while he stated there "was nothing of a suspicious nature in connection with it," he ordered R.C.M.P. to conduct a thorough investigation and report back to him before he decided if an inquest was necessary.

Fires in Edmonton were at a minimum Thursday and Friday, although one of the two reported in the 24-hour period up to noon was a $19,000 fire at the Big Four Storage Garage about 6:00 a.m. Friday. The second was a fire in a wall of a house at 5516 Ada blvd., shortly before noon. Damage was slight.

City services were standing up remarkably well under the frigid spell and officials still are keeping their fingers crossed hoping their luck will hold.

Expecting snow during the night, Street Railway Superintendent Thomas Ferrier issued warnings to passengers to catch street cars and buses earlier Friday morning. Sweepers were out all night keeping tracks clear and trackmen wielded brooms vigorously keeping switches clear.

The result was that Friday there were a few minor delays reported and some rerouting but generally the street cars and buses were doing better than they were Thursday. Traction was improvd and trolley buses were behaving well. There was trouble with gasoline buses in which the heating apparatus froze.

Street cars were overloaded Friday with motormen, wearing gloves and overcoats to keep reasonably warm in their front vestibule, picking up everyone they could. "This is no day for people to be standing around outside," Mr. Ferrier said. He reported no wire breaks.

Trans-Canada Airlines flights were delayed Thursday night, one flight not getting away until Friday at 8:00 a.m. but the air company, together with Canadian Pacific Airlines, reported Friday all flights on schedule.

C.N.R. trains from the east were running about two hours late Friday and C.P.R. trains coming into Edmonton were about three hours behind schedule. Passengers arriving from the north on the N.A.R. reported extremely cold conditions in the cars.

Meetings throughout the city were being cancelled until warmer weather returned and curling and other sports events also were called off, the players staying home around a warm fire.

One of the gatherings cancelled here was the Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers association dance in the Masonic Temple Friday night.

The Banff Winter week, scheduled to open this week-end, as also postponed a full week because of the cold.

At Peace River the annual men's bonspiel was fogbound. When temperatures dropped to 55 below Thursday, the valley was filled with fog, which drifted into the rink, where temperatures were four below zero. Skips used flashlights to enable players in the hacks to draw to the brooms.

Only serious trouble reported by the Gas company occurred early Friday in Jasper Place where safety devices on gas regulators in about a dozen homes automatically shut off the gas supply. Calls to the company sent a squad of men rushing to the trouble spots and the situation was cleared in no time at all.

Jullian Garrett, general manager, said there had been an obstruction in the line and the safety devices, which cut off the supply if the inlet pressure drops below a certain point, went into operation.

Between 1:00 and 2:00 p.m. Thursday the company was delivering gas at the rate of 70,000,000 cubic feet a day. At zero temperature the average production is 48,000,000 cubic feet a day, Mr. Garrett stated.

City waterworks officials said their system was standing up well and there was no serious trouble.

R. S. Sheppard, public school superintendent, said attendance at schools was practically normal, with no marked drop because of the cold weather. He said he understood it was different in country schools where pupils had miles to go.

One bakery in the city announced there would be no house-to-house deliveries Friday but that deliveries would be made to stores. Other bakeries and milk companies said their deliveries were continuing. Mail men also were on the jobs Friday and receiving courteous treatment from householders who asked them in to keep warm.

National Health Week

Sixteen people die in Canada every day from tuberculosis. More than 1,000 children die annually from diphtheria, whooping cough and scarlet fever—all preventable diseases. Resident patients in mental hospitals have increased 60 per cent since 1931. Cancer takes more than 14,000 people as its annual toll. Canada's total cost for sickness and untimely death is estimated at one billion dollars a year.

No wonder, then, that National Health Week—observed from February 2nd to 8th—is established as a period in which Canadians should give a little intensive thought to these things.

National Health Week suggests two major observations.

It suggests, first, that the health services designed to prevent and cure disease must have every possible assistance, financial and otherwise, from the public.

It suggests, secondly, that in some way or another all the Canadian people must be made aware of these services and urged to take advantage of them early and earnestly.

For the best health services in the world will only attain maximum efficiency when the people really put them to work.

During this Health Week Canadians should give full consideration to these things. Above all, they should acquaint themselves intimately with the steps that are being taken to prolong their lives.

A Wrong Attitude

When the federal Government named Mr. Justice Carroll to mediate in the dispute between maritime province miners and mine operators, one miner official said he didn't think the action "would make much difference." He expected the threatened strike would begin at midnight tonight unless the wage demands of the mine workers were met in full in the meantime.

It is hoped that the official is wrong, not only in predicting the strike, but in his understanding of the attitude of the miners.

When either party to a labor dispute takes the positon that it is a waste of time to attempt to mediate, that is a declaration of total disregard of the rights of the public. Such attempts on the part of the public authority are made on behalf of those who keep the industry alive by buying its products or its services.

To simply rule the consuming public out of the picture as having no rights is more than grossly unjust. It is also bad strategy. For the interests of the consumer are vital to the operation of the enterprise.

Moreover, the public have power to enforce their rights and protect their interests. It is not wise to provoke them by treating them as rank outsiders who do not have to be considered. There is such provocation whenever one party to a dispute refuses to carry on when asked to do so by the appropriate authority.

Nothing has done more in the last year to arouse a popular demand for some means to compel peaceful settlements of disputes which threaten to cut off supplies of some necessary commodity—such as coal. The consumers have stood about as much as they intend to stand in the way of arrogance on the part of either employers or employes when an industrial dispute arises.

Unless compulsory arbitration is what they want, it is sheer folly for either party to a dispute to defy the public by refusing to accept means to negotiate a settlement.

Decision by Oracle?

The application of the Alberta government telephones for a commercial license for radio station CKUA has again been denied, this time by the federal cabinet.

And apparently the only reason this license has been refused by the cabinet is that the Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe made a speech in the House of Commons last May 3, stating his opinion that commercial licenses should not be granted to radio stations owned by provincial governments.

No reasons were offered for the cabinet's decision to abide by this statement. Indeed, no reasons were ever offered to support the statement itself. It has never been made clear why it is iniquitous that provincial governments should operate radios, particularly since provincial governments do own commercial radio stations and appear to operate them usefully and well.

The only ground for refusing Alberta's application, then, was that Mr. Howe had spoken. This is something new. We have seen governments of all kinds and conditions. But government by oracle is a rare and unwelcome experience in Canada.

The Edmonton Bulletin was rather exuberant about the fact that this latter application in behalf of CKUA was going to the cabinet instead of to the Canadian Brodcasting Corporation because it believed that the cabinet would judge the application on its merits. We were wrong. The oracular method of decision was adopted instead.

The radio situation in Canada might be spectacularly improved if it were controlled by reason instead of by opinions and prejudices. The Alberta government would do well to ask for a reconsideration and also why the recent application was refused.

From the Bottom Up

Republican Congressmen have split on the question of how to cut down income taxes. They all want to cut down the levies, but are divided as to how it should be done.

One group proposed a straight 20 per cent reduction right across the board. But the other group say this would chiefly benefit the large taxpayer, who least needs relief; and would leave the small taxpayer still having to hand over tax-money that he needs to support his family.

The latter propose that, instead of cutting 20 per cent off the top of every person's taxes, Congress had better start at the other end of the structure and raise the exemption of a married man to $2,000.

This of course sounds familiar to Canadian ears. More than a year ago income taxes in the Dominion were cut 16 per cent across the board. Every one got a reduction. But those who least needed a reduction got the bigger slice. Those who had to pay out of small earnings still had to pay 84 per cent of their former taxes.

Last session the opposite course was taken. Exemptions for married men were raised from $1,200 to $1,500, and from $660 for single persons to $750. These changes came into effect at the beginning of the present calendar year.

The effect was to ease every taxpayer's burden, but to do the most easing where it was most needed. About one quarter of the previous taxpayers will pay nothing at all this year. While all others will pay, those in the higher brackets will pay more nearly what they paid last year than will the one in a lower bracket.

To their credit, no audible complaint was heard from large taxpayers because the man with small income was given this advantage.

Whatever course may be taken in the United States, there is no doubt at all which Canadians prefer for themselves. They expect a further reduction at the present session of parliament, and they are almost unanimous in the hope that the reduction will be made by lifting the exemption figures again—to $2,000 for married men and $1,000 for single persons, or even higher for both categories.

Edmonton's Archives

The city council does well to establish an archives committee to take on the task of collecting, indexing and preserving historical data of Edmonton.

All this background color sometimes appears unimportant in the life of a community until records are so confused as to be useless. But the older a city gets the more vital appear the traditions and legends that surround its beginnings.

Many cities, in their more mature period, have paid tremendous sums to straighten out the stories of their beginnings. Even in Edmonton some of the best legends are commencing to get twisted. The archives committee begins, then, to function none too soon.

This community has had a lively and interesting past. Woven into its being are tales of heroism and sacrifice and pioneering courage and endurance that are assets of the highest value. They are something in which Edmontonians yet unborn will take a passionate civic pride.

The preservation of these things and the establishing of historical relics and the identification of historic sites is an important major job. The committee should be given enough money to carry out its work fully and effectively.

Those Sun Spots!

San Erancisco had a snow storm, the first in fourteen years. Vancouver people may rather welcome the news. It makes their own snowfall of the winter less conspicuous—and less liable to be remembered by inlanders when Vancouverites make unkind remarks about the prairie climate.

And perhaps Canadians generally should take more than casual interest in the event. Back in pre-war times California orchardists used to send out word about this time of the year that frost had cut down the citrus fruit crops and prices would be high. That snow storm will give them a first class chance to renew the seasonal reports and get them believed, since snow suggests frost.

A couple of years ago scientists sent out warnings that they had been looking at the sun spots and foresaw strange things happening in the weather line over the next five years or so. The news from San Francisco and Europe seems to show that they knew what the spots meant.

Newsprint, for Instance

BY ELMORE PHILPOTT

When Montreal thieves stole a movie projector and film, showing latest treatment techniques for cancer, irresponsible newspaper reporters jumped to the conclusion that here was another spy case! They hinted—Russia!

The press of the western world has not yet done as much as it should and could have done to show the press of the Soviet Union how efficiently and responsibly a free press can operate.

PHILPOTT

There have been some untrue and mischievous expressions in the Russian government - controlled newspaper in the past year. One of these was the article in "Red Fleet" casting aspersions on British and American crews who convoyed shipments of war supplies to Russia. The only thing that could be said in extenuation of this stupid article was that it was repudiated by a still more officialese Soviet newspaper — Pravda.

But I doubt that such offenses in the Soviet state-owned press have been worse in net effect than the mischief-making reports and wild comments in many of our western-world papers.

* * *

CO-OPERATION and friendship between the western democracies and the Soviet is not just a matter of preventing war. It is a matter of rebuilding the world on a basis of mutual benefit. It means the difference between prosperity and depression.

Take the matter of newspaper. Nearly all the newspapers in all parts of the world are now literally starved for paper — they simply can't get enough.

Had there been the same degree of the 1946 teamplay between our part of the world and the Soviet as there was in wartime the Soviet could have produced—by now—enough EXTRA pulpwood, pulp or newsprint to have broken the back of the world scarcity.

With the proceeds from pulpwood or newsprint—for which the west pants—the Soviet could have paid for heavy equipment which she in turn vitally needs.

* * *

NO RUSSIAN agent would need to steal a medical movie showing Canadian teechniques of cancer treatment—or of any other disease. It is only in the field of war that secrecy and mutual spying prevails.

Russia, or any other country, can and does get for the asking all information on medical science developed in Canada. Likewise Canada can and does freely get similar information developed in the Soviet.

* * *

The blood seerum developed by the late Doctor Bogomolets, for instance, was made freely available to scientists of western countries. The same process works the other way around.

* * *

ON MY LAST trip to our far north in Canada I bumped into a nurseryman who specializes (naturally enough) in shrubs, bushes and trees that will grow in the extreme north. He told me that the bulk of his most useful products originally came from the Soviet Union—and that he had never had any trouble communicating directly with the various parts of that country.

Surely this illustrates my point—the real trouble with Soviet-western relationships is on the governmental level—and only on that level. In those fields like agriculture and medical science where co-operation and communication is not provided by governmental or ideological bottlenecks—fine results are being obtained already.

* * *

THE WAR-and-peace question is paramount in Soviet-western relationships.

It only takes one to make a quarrel, or commit murder, or make war (not-withstanding the false proverb which says it takes two). But it does take two to make an agreement, based on trust, let alone friendship.

Granted honest agreemeent on a live-and-let-live basis there is almost an unlimited field for western-Soviet co-operation.

Far-sighted American business men like Wendell Willkie saw that long ago. Yet it is only in Sweden that the business leaders have been smart enough to get their government to get them in on the ground floor of large-scale trade with Russia.

The recent visit to Moscow of Field Marshall Montgomery suggests that Britain will soon try to do like-wise.

Plan for Freer Trade

BY J. H. GRAY

OTTAWA: Among the unfinished business of the United Naions is th establishment of some machinery for the control of international cartels. So powerful did these world-dividing trade trusts become before the war that a serious menace to enterprise was created in many democracies.

In the war years investigations of the domestic cartels in the United States and Canada uncovered the roots of the international organizations.

Vigorous prosecution of trade restraining monopolies have been undertaken in the United States. Last year the Canadian anti-combines division was revitalized and placed under the department of justice. But it was realized at the time that unless international action could be brought into play, many of the worst evils of cartels would remain beyond the reach of Canadian or American courts.

* * *

WHEN THE International Trade Organization met in London last fall, special attention was devoted to the cartel problem. The United States sent one of its top anti-trusters to the talks and Canada was represented by F. A. McGregor, chief of our anti-combines enforcement organization.

To those who knew how deeply cartels and trade organizations were embedded in the economies of Europe, little hope was held out for much progress. Yet the pessimists were agreeably surprised when, as a result of conferences, general agreement was reached by all the nations in attendance.

The progress that was made can be measured in two ways; by the examination of the terms of the draft agreement, and by the recital of the mental obstacles which had to be overcome to achieve agreement.

The second approach will help to prepare the ground for examination of the agreement in a second article.

* * *

ONE ERROR which is commonly made on this side of the Atlantic is to assume that because we are against cartels and monopolies all the rest of the world shares our sentiments. This simply has not been true. In Europe, the cartel is a respectable and widely accepted form of business organization and many governments have in fact encouraged their business men to form themselves into cartels.

Some of the small nations saw, in the cartel, a means of enabling them to compete with the wealthier industries in more powerful countries. They encouraged their business men to form cartels of their own and when the latter moved into the spheres of influence of the big cartels no objection was raised.

Thus, in countries such as Holland and Belgium and in Scandanavia there was no historic anti - cartel sentiment. When the International Trade Organization met in London, the Belgian and Dutch representatives expressed strong opposition to the program that was placed before them by the United States. They looked with suspicion on the proposals from this continent. They suspected a scheme to drive their traders out of world markets.

* * *

BEFORE ANY progress was possible, it was necessary for the Canadian and American delegates to clear away the misconceptions of the delegates from the other democracies. Then they had to convince them of the necessity for world action against some forms of cartels. This took time. But after a month of meetings and negotiations between the delegates the selling job was done. In the end the nations represented reached unanmous aggreement on a draft charter for freeing the channels of World Trade from the restrictions imposed by the cartels.

The draft will not satisfy those who belong to the all or nothing school. It does not go as far as Canada would have liked. But it does at least provide a foundation to build on. It will be examined in detail in a second article.

Famous Case Recalled

Ottawa Journal

When a Paris-New York air liner crashed in Eire the other day, one of the passengers to meet death was Pierre Dreyfus. He was the son of Alfred Dreyfus, whose trial and false sentence for treason stirred the world fifty odd years ago. It is good to remember the France who turned a shame into a glory, and good to recall the great names who with their motto, "let justice be done though the heavens fall," fought against forlorn odds to brng Dreyfus vindication.

Tug of War

Letter in Halifax Herald

The taxpayer has so much money that can be "hijacked" from him without revolt—and what a spectacle is on now! The Dominion and the provinces are quarrelling over who can get the bigger mouthful. How edifying and how amazing.

A New Excuse

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

We noticed in the Leader-Post a news report that Mrs. George W. Cadbury, the wife of one of the Douglas Government's economic advisers has refused an invitation to speak to a public forum in Regina because of fear that she will be misquoted in the press. Allowing that Mrs. Cadbury may use her feminine privilege of accusing this report itself of being garbled, we find it the most ingenious excuse for not giving a public speach that we have yet encountered. It may be that Mrs. Cadbury really has nothing to say.

What Was Added

Halifax Herald

The basic Dominion proposals have hac in principle the approval and support of the great mass of the people in all parts of the country. It is what has been super - imposed upon those proposals that has become dscriminatory and unjustifiable.

Sugar Beet Labor

BY HARPER PROWSE, MLA

Recently at a meeting in Winnipeg the Canadian Sugar Beet Producers' Association decided to ask the government to bring in 5,000 agricultural workers to help with the beet crop. The beet-growers must be really worried about the labor situation, otherwise they would have done a little more careful thinking before arriving at such a questionable decision.

They pointed out that these immigrants would be needed during the hoeing season in the early summer and the harvest in the fall. They suggested that they would work in the beet fields from June 1 to July 15 and from Sept. 15 to Oct. 31. They also suggested that they could harvest grain crops before the beet harvest started and work in lumbering operations during the winter.

IT WILL BE NOTED that these men will start work for three months of the year in the beet fields. Now beet work is usually let on a contract basis — currently at $39 per acre. One man can handle about eight acres in a season, so that these men could collect about $316 per annum for their work in the beet fields —or about $105 per month. With luck they could earn another $300 harvesting grain crops. And, with equal luck might put in about five months in lumber camps clearing perhaps $70 per month.

But beet fields are located in the southern part of this province—as in every other province—and are just about as far from lumbering operations as it is possible to get without leaving the country. And while single men may be prepared to move all over our great northwest in search of work, married men—even married immigrants—aren't apt to be too enthusiastic about this.

THE IMMIGRATION the beet-growers desire might solve their problem for one or two seasons. But that is all. Then we would be right back where we started. This is merely another attempt to use immigrants to solve our problem of "Who is going to do the dirty work?" And immigration is not the permanent answer to it.

Labor groups, especially those in the less skilled and unskilled occupations, aren't going to be happy about any program which brings into this country people who are willing to do work which is so poorly paid that our own people aren't interested in it. Nor will any student of social affairs be happy about any program which aims at bringing in people for the purpose of performing tasks which pay them only a bare living wage for three months work out of each year. We aren't that short of men for the lumbering operations this year that we can readily absorb all our own people and the immigrants as well.

THE BEET growers have their problems, and they are important ones. But this solution, which seems so easy, is not the answer to their problem. Just what the solution is, of course, is not so easy to see. But there has been considerable mechanization of the sugar-beet industry in the past 15 years, and it is possible that further mechanization is the only answer.

The Bulletin's Readers Say:

ENCOURAGING SIGN

Editor, Bulletin—I note an item in the news (Bulletin of Jan. 17) in which ex-premier J. E. Brownlee is of the opinion that: With proper vision the permanent international farm federation launched in London last May can be an instrument of great power in world affairs; and that the result of the conference, in his opinion, would be the encouragement of the formation of national farm bodies in every country.

The above was an encouraging and constructive sign of these times, when the human family needs every trend to neighborliness and the spirit of brotherhood that can be developed. I thought that the following closing lines in a speech to the delegates attending the above International conference, by the Rt. Hon. Ernest Bevin, would be considered timely, having in mind the poet's challenge—'For what avail the plow or sail, or land, or life — of freedom fail?'

"We want no more Nazism, we want no more dictatorships. We want to see the peasant, in a simple land of the peasant and the plow, in the great reaper, in the great machines with which you thresh, in the great trains through which you distribute, in the ships which carry your products to the ends of the earth where, if famine occurs in one place, the harvest of another is available to succour them. I believe that with all these great modern inventions, modern efforts, there lies as much power in your hands — certainly greater power than lies in any statesman—to produce a world of peace and plenty and the obliteration of war."

WAR GRAVES

Editor, Bulletin — for the past year, the writer has had much correspondence with the burgomaster of Groesbeek, Holland, in connection with the humane work being done by the Dutch war graves committee. This committee solicits and encourages the adoption of Allied soldiers' graves in Holland, and the organization is made up of patriotic and responsible Dutch citizens who pledge themselves to visit the graves and place flowers on them from time to time. Nearly 2,800 heroic Canadian soldiers are buried in Holland, yet only a few hundred home addresses of the next-of-kin are known to the D.W.G.C.

Any parents or next-of-kin of a Canadian serviceman buried in Holland who would like to know if the grave of their loved one has been adopted, and by whom, can have this information given them by the Dutch war graves committee if they will write the undersigned, giving the soldier's service number, his full name and rank, and the name of his regiment or unit.

FARM PRODUCTS

Editor, Bulletin—The dependency of labor and farmers upon one another is shown by figures recently published. When times are good the worker's purchases of farm products go up.

Despite efforts made to disunite these two groups, the farmer and worker realizes more and more that the welfare of one group is dependent on the welfare of the other. Their prosperity is indivisible.

The following table gives the expenditures for meat, poultry and fish, in the period March to June, 1942, by housekeeping families in the United States, according to size of yearly incomes.

Size of Income	Expenditures per week
Under $1,000	$4.69
$1,000-$2,000	$7.44
$2,000-$3,000	$10.26
$3,000-$4,000	$11.91
$4,000 or over	$14.05

The figures are tangible evidence of the importance of size of incomes relative to the amount paid for meat and poultry and the meaning for farmers is obvious. Expenditure is 60 per cent higher for families belonging to the higher bracket.

That workers during the war had steady pay cheques (and higher ones) affected their purchase of farm products thusly: per capita consumption of dairy products excluding butter, increased during the war 20 per cent, fresh fruits and vegetables 40 per cent and fluid milk 50 per cent.

Professor to Make Experiments

To Test I. Q. of Octopus

LONDON, Jan. 31—(BUP)—Prof. John Zachary Young of the University of London announced today he will begin tests shortly to learn just what sort of an intelligence quotient the octupus has

THE UNIVERSITY has appropriated $3,200 to provide him with an assistant to help in the experiments which may last three years They will be conducted in the Naples aquarium where a fine collection of octopi are waiting.

For Young is convinced that the slimy, eight-armed denizens of submarine caves possess the knack of acquiring knowledge. He and his assistant will see how much they can be taught.

"I have never," the professor said. "seen a dumb octopus."

YOUNG SAID THAT the octopus is supposed to have the best brain of any boneless animal—as every avid reader of sea adventure stories knows. He hoped it would be more co-operative than its young cousin, the cuttlefish, which flunked intelligence tests last year.

"Every time we tried to teach him something he squirted a screen of ink at us and disappeared," Young said. One of the experiment's results was that assistants are hard to get, he said wryly

The probe into the I.Q. of the octopus is the first of a series of experiments Young is conducting.

"WE SHALL START with the octopus because he has the biggest brain and is the easiest to dissect of any creature of his type. His behavior is most interesting," Young explained.

He said the creatures' course would include classes in reactions to colored lights, musical sounds and unpleasant tasting food.

Full-Fledged Western Star

Joel McCrea Becomes Boots and Saddle Man

By Aline Mosby

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31 -(BUP)- This village is full of cowboy actors who started their film careers in sagebrush sagas and are trying like sixty to graduate into deathless drah-ma.

NOW WE HAVE a guy who got famous as a city slicker but could hardly wait to get out of his store-bought clothes into boots and spurs for good.

The gent we speak of is Joel McCrea. With the finishing of "Ramrod" for Enterprise Studio, he's a full-fledged western star, is definitely typed as same, and that is the way he likes it.

"I don't know why these Hollywood writers quote me as beefing that I'm typed as a Western star," he told us. "Those are the paris I like."

Later, he will see how much insects and vertebrates can learn Ants, he conceded, are intelligent but their brains are too small for science to explore.

"WE WANT TO FIND out what makes a human being intelligent," he said. "We are going to try to break down the octopus' brain and the brain of other creatures most unlike man to find a common denominator—that is, the common element which permits those lowly creatures and man himself to learn."

OF COURSE, he added, if somebody shoved an Academy - award winning sophisticated role under his nose he wouldn't turn it down

But, otherwise, it's the hayburners for McCrea. Not cheap Westerns, he emphasized, but excitin' pioneer sagas.

This makes McCrea a 24-hour boots and saddle man.

For he's one of the movie colony's gen-u-wine ranchers.

"I GUESS you'd call me a part-time actor," he drawled. "The other half of my career is ranching. I take that just as seriously as acting."

McCrea has a 3,000-acre spread in the Santa Rosa valley, north of Hollywood. There he and his wife, former actress Frances Dee, raise two children and 300 Hereford cattle.

Joel's been hankerin' to be a Western star and rancher for quite a spell.

"I'VE WANTED to own a ranch since I was nine," he said. "I worked on ranches during the summer while I was going to high school and college."

But ranches cost money. So-o-o-o. Joel, when he was a senior at Pomona College, decided to become a cowboy star. That way he'd have fun riding an artificial range and collect enough dough to buy a real ranch.

"In 10 years in the movies I never got to be a cowboy actor,' he said. "But I finally got in four Western epics, beginning with 'Wells Fargo'."

HE FEELS at home in those kind of pictures and, by gum, that's where he's gonna stay.

McCrea's pal, the late Will Rogers, kept after him to buy that dream ranch.

"He always told me, 'Get yourself a piece of land and you'll never have to worry,'" McCrea said.

At first, ranching was a sideline and McCrea just hoped to break even.

"BUT YOU KNOW a Scotchman—can't get into anything without making money," he grinned. "Now I have a regular business selling cattle to meat packers around California."

See? He's no drugstore cowboy. He doesn't fill his ranch house with city visitors nor his barn with phony fireproof hay. During the filming of "Ramrod" he tripped the director more than once.

"He wanted the horses to have shorn manes, but they didn't in the old days," McCrea explained. "And he didn't think cowboys wore high-heeled boots then, but they did.

AUSSIE INTERIM ARMY

MELBOURNE, Australia -(CP) Australia is to have an interim army of 39,000 until the size and condition of postwar forces are determined. Existing strength of the interim army is 31,000, consisting of 10,000 in Japan, 12,000 volunteers for two years' service from within the forces in Australia, and 9,000 volunteers from outside.

In Sweden, a fully qualified commercial aviation pilot costs 400,000 kronen, or about $111,500. This is the estimated sum the airline which employs him invests in his training.

Blind Vet Gets Choice of Jobs

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 -(BUP)-Calvin D. Venable had his choice of several jobs today, although he is blind.

All he had to do was decide where he wanted to locate, Hollywood, New York, Kansas City, Detroit, or a dozen other cities Or he could even remain in Portland, Ore., if he wanted to.

THE 24-YEAR-OLD blind war veteran was pretty blue recently about the lack of answers to his advertisement for a job in a Portland newspaper. Then other papers throughout the country told his story.

Venable went blind in the hold of a Japanese prison ship, said the one thing he wanted, "more than even one short glimpse of my wife's face — is a regular job and a normal life."

First to respond to the advertisement was Jimmy Mount, a New York furniture designer who offered to put Venable to work in his woodworking department at a dollar an hour, "with raises as fast as you can earn them, and training to become a furniture designer.

FURTHERMORE, Mount offered to pay Venable's expenses to New York and keep him and his family in a hotel suite until he could find an apartment.

Other offers offered help in finding an apartment.

Lawrence Ottinger, president of the U.S. Plywood, New York, said he would put Venable to work in the factory of the Cascades Plywood Company in Portland, if he wanted to remain in his home town.

"Go down and see Max J. Fucker president of Cascades Plywood." Ottinger told the veteran, 'and tell him I sent you."

Cascades Plywood is a subsidiary of U. S. Plywood.

OTHER JOBS WERE offered Venable by a Detroit Automobile company, a Kansas City furniture company, a Hollywood motion picture company and a dozen other firms anxious to help out the veteran.

Venable said in his advertisement that he was not in financial straits because he was receiving a full disability pension.

"A man who hasn't anything better to do than sit around a house all day is liable to go off the deep end. For a blind man, it's like a prison," he said.

HAROLD DEAN, Sports Editor

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THE HISTORY of inter-varsity sport in western Canada is being written today in Saskatoon, where rinks from Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan commence their round-robin series for the university curling title.

Skips Don Butt and Ernie Shilling of Sedgewick and Peace River respectively, the survivors of an eight-rink round-robin series will be piloting Alberta men's representatives, while the co-ed rink will be skipped by Mrs. Cunningham, a Faculty of Education under-grad, and with her are Phyllis Fraser, Nancy Pasco and Jean Moffatt.

Don Butt, a regular attendant at Edmonton bonspiels, is one of the top curlers in the province. He is a pupil of Billy Rose and last year played second rocks for Cliff Manahan in the 'spiel. Don's third is Jack Lebeau of Calgary, a member of Howard Palmer's Macdonald Brier winners in 1941.

Gordon McLaws, a second, was with Bob Munro's Calgary rink in the bonspiel here a year ago, while Lead Dick Bearisto is another good curler with a Sedgewick background. John Melnyk, president University Curling Club, is going along too.

Bonspiel Entries Total 146

EXCEPTIONALLY SEVERE WEATHER of the past few days in all probability will cut down the number of rinks which have attended the Edmonton bonspiel, but up to Thursday the total stood at 146. Entries close at 8 o'clock tonight.

Last year's 190 constituted a record, the previous high being in 1945 when 134 rinks participated in the annual event of the Alberta Curling Association.

The earlier closing date is an innovation this year, it being decided to make the draw on Friday instead of the night before opening day for the convenience of curlers. All six draws will be published Saturday. Secretary James McCool opened headquarters in the Macdonald hotel today.

Results Justify Overtime

CALGARY STAMPEDERS, WHOSE 3-2 victory over Lethbridge Maple Leafs Wednesday night, came with just 20 seconds to go in overtime, have been tangled up in more extra sessions this season than any other club in the western senior circuit.

So far, 10 scheduled games have gone into overtime, and Calgary has been in seven of them, emerging with a pair of wins, one loss and four ties. The loss, incidently, was to Edmonton in the arena here on Dec. 9 and these two teams deadlocked 4-4 in Calgary on Dec. 18.

Flyers have been engaged in five bargain sessions, winning two, losing one and tying two. Lethbridge has been in four, with a record of two losses and two ties, while Regina Caps, who play Calgary tonight, have had an even break in overtime struggles, with one win, one loss and tie out of three. Saskatoon Elks have been giving overtimers a wide berth, being in only one and salvaging a single point.

The NHL claim that the additional 10 minutes do not produce a sufficient number of decisions to justify playing overtime, does not hold good in the Western Canada League. Five of the 10 extra sessions —exactly 50 per cent—played in the prairie loop have resulted in a winner being declared.

England Makes Quiet Opening

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 31-(Reuters)-England made a quiet opening in the fourth cricket test match which began here today, and in 90 minutes before lunch Leonard Hutton and Cyril Washbrook, England's opening batsmen, put on only 58 runs without loss.

Hutton scored 28 not out, and Washbrook 27 not out with three extra.

England's opening pair were obviously intent on wearing the edge off the Australian bowling.

Although Australia has retained the "Ashes," symbolic of the world cricket championship, by their victories at Brisbane and Sydney and a draw at Melbourne, England must win the fourth test match in order to maintain interest in the five-match series.

Walter Hammond, greatest all-round cricketer of his generation, won the toss and England batted first on a wicket which looked perfect. The weather was ideal—brilliant sunshine tempered by a breeze blowing across the wicket.

Moose Jaw Beats Swift Current 4-2

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask., Jan. 31-(CP)-Moose Jaw Canucks of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League came from behind in the third period to hand the Swift Current Indians of the Southern Saskatchewan Senior "B" Hockey League a 4-2 defeat last night in an exhibition game here.

Bak and Mader put the league leading Indians out in front with a tally apiece in the first period without a reply. Vic Kreklewetz scored the lone tally of the middle frame for Moose Jaw as the second place Canucks battled to show their strength with the score 2-1 against them.

Canucks came through in the final frame with a drive which netted Arnold Thompson, Russ Wylie and Harvey Stein one goal each.

Soccer Czar Comes Up With A New One

Stadium Built From Blitzed Materials

LONDON, Jan. 31 -(CP)- Major Frank Buckley, the soccer Barnum with the midas touch who introduced a new word — glands — into the pre-war football vocabulary, still astounds the sports world. This time it has nothing to do with injecting a few vitamins into "sluggish" players.

In this land of housing shortages the major has built a soccer stadium. Most of the material came from blitzed sites and it was completed in nine weeks.

BUCKLEY hit the front pages of newspapers in nearly all parts of the world in 1938 when he started the idea of glandular injections for Wolverhampton Wanderers, his English League first division club. The new-fangled training idea didn't bring his club the league championship or Football Association Cup, but he came within a cat's lick of taking both, second in the league and cup finalist.

He left the Wolves in 1944 after 18 years as manager, joined Nottingham County the same year and this season switched to Hull City, a third division club. Under his leadership things started happening.

WHILE HUNDREDS of supporters pitched in to help build the stadium, Buckley shopped around for a team. He signed nearly 25 players for something like £1,400 ($5,000) and now can sell at least one of his men for 5,000 pounds.

This paltry out-lay for a big-time soccer club followed the usual Buckley pattern. His system is to discover 'teen-agers, nurse them along, sell them to the highest bidder and still retain a fighting club.

His strategy netted Wolves nearly £750,000 from 1935 to 1939, including the highest-ever £14,000 transfer fee Arsenal paid for Bryn Jones in 1938. Wolves supporters howled when Buckley let the international inside-forward go and he promply sold two other discoveries, netting another £13,000.

MINUS these three stars, Wolves placed second in the league standing and lost 4-1 in the cup final against Portsmouth.

Buckley brought fame — and riches—to Wolves and is now bringing a resurrection to Hull. Townsfolk, after seven wartime years without football, are crowding into the stadium. The team drew 37,000 in one cup game and the Saturday afternoon gate rarely is less than 20,000, a crowd few other third division clubs can approach.

Cubs to Out-Bid Shore for Park

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 3—(AP)— Chicago Cubs are prepared to out-bid Canadian-born Eddie Shore, owner of the Springfield American Hockey League club, by $15,000 to purchase Pynchon Park, the municipal sports stadium, a city council spokesman said yesterday.

He said that the Cubs, who are interested in locating a minor league baseball farm here, have indicated they will go as high as $50,000 for the property when the bidding opens shortly.

SHORE'S OFFER of $35,000 was in the form of an option which he could exercise after taking over the park for a $3,000 annual rental.

MACCLESFIELD, England -(CP) —Alderley Edge, with its woods and sandstone escarpment, has been obtained by county council compulsory purchase order and will be turned over to the National Trust for permanent preservation as a park.

Semi-Final Brackets Reached at Red Deer

RED DEER, Jan. 31 — The fours were filled in the Grand Challenge and the Hotelkeepers, the two primaries, at the close of play on Thursday, third day of the Red Deer bonspiel. Three rinks were also out in the fours of the Red Deer curling club event for the visitors, and a pair of rinks were in the fours of the Eaton's, the first secondary, and they were getting along well in the Lawrence Ltd., the other secondary.

In the Grand Challenge two visitors and two Red Deer rinks were in the money. F. E. Downey, Bentley, was drawn against Ron Holmes, Red Deer, with Chas. Humber, Red Deer, against Pat Webb, Mirror. The visitors had it all their own way in the Hotelkeepers, with D. F. McLeod, Mirror, two Innisfail men, Bud Kirkham and Earl Freeman, and Art Lincoln, Stettler, making up the fours.

O. STRANNE, Red Deer, was in the fours of the Eatons. W. Bruce, Webb, Mirror, and Downey, Bentley, were in the fours in the Visitors' event.

Cold weather was again the order of the day and it was a pretty grim grind for the 42 rinks. Draw secretary Gordon Habkirk, Olds, hopes to wind up the play today.

THE RED DEER arena, as well as the curling rink, had been in use for the first three days, but the balance of the 'spiel will be played only at the curling rink.

On Thursday evening the curlers were guests of the Red Deer club at a banquet at the Buffalo hotel.

Richard and Blake Give Canadiens Win

Injury-Riddled Leafs Handed A 2-0 Shutout

MONTREAL, Jan. 31 -(CP)- Two big goals by Maurice Richard and Toe Blake gave Montreal Canadiens a 2-0 win over an injury-riddlen but game Toronto Maple Leafs squad here Thursday night before a crowd of 12,275 and moved the Habitants within one point of the National Hockey League leading Leafs.

Leafs, playing with only two forwards on the sidelines, battled all even with the full-manned Canadiens for the first half of the game until Richard's close - in shot near the end of the second period provided the big break, with Howie Meeker in the penalty box.

FROM THERE on through a hustling, hard-bumping third period it was Canadiens who forced the play as Leafs tired rapidly. Little defenceman Wally Stanowski, who played practically 60 minutes of hockey, could scarcely skate at the finish.

Blake's goal, after less than three minutes of the final frame, came on a typical play by the oldtimer, who got his stick on the puck just outside the crease and bounced it in after Kenny Reardon had shot from the blueline. Elmer Lach drew an assist on that counter and also on the first one, an all-punch line affair that saw Blake and Elmer setting it up for speedball Richard.

THE GAME was rough throughout, after a slow and cautious first period, and 12 penalties in all were handed out, half a dozen apiece.

Turk Broda verged on the spectacular at times as Canadiens ganged him and swept his weakened and tired defence aside. Bill Durnan, earning his second shutout, stopped 17 shots against Broda's 23.

IT WAS Durnan more than anybody else who saved Canadiens' bacon in the early stages as Leafs had the edge in the play. Just before the end of the second period, with Mosdell in the penalty box and Leafs rampaging all around him, Durnan made a sensational one-handed stop of a sizzler by Gaye Stewart that was labelled.

TORONTO—Broda; Morrison; Kennedy; N. Metz, Meeker. Subs: Stanowski, Watson, Poile, Bodnar, Apps, D. Metz, Ezinicki, Stewart.

MONTREAL — Durnan; Bouchard, Reardon; Lach; Richard, Blake. Subs: Harmon, Lamoureux, Leger, Reay, Gravelle, Fillion, Mosdell, Chamberlain, Peters, O'Connor.

Referee — Bill Chadwick. Linesmen—Ray Getliffe and Sam Babcock.

FIRST PERIOD: Scoring — none. Penalties — O'Connor, Fillion, Thomson, Chamberlain, Mortson, Richard.

SECOND PERIOD: 1 — Montreal, Richard (Lach, Blake) 17:36. Penalties — Ezinicki, Harmon, Poile, Meeker, Mosdell.

THIRD PERIOD: 2—Montreal, Blake (Lach, Reardon) 2:29.

Penalties — Mortson.

New Method Downs Varsity Sextet 8-4

Preparing for their opening Alberta intermediate hockey playoff series against Vegreville, which starts here on Tuesday, New Method skated to a convincing 8-4 victory over University Golden Bears in a fast exhibition at the Arena Thursday night.

Louie Holmes, coach of the laundrymen, paced his club to the triumph by scoring twice and setting up two other counters. Harry Allen assisted in three for the winners while the other girls came from the sticks of George Stuart, Don Pettinger, Stan Morgan, Bill Dawe, "Red" Heron and Benny Klingspoon.

BILL INGRAM with two and Ken Cox and Colbourne netted for the students.

Pettinger shot the New Methods into a 1-0 lead at 6:56 when he drove home a Holmes pass and then shortly afterwards Stuart finished off a play with Dawe to make it 2-0. Colburn cut the lead for the Varsity crew at the 14 minute mark, only to have Holmes come back with Marsh Darling and make it 3-1 before the period ended.

KEN COX sliced the margin again for Varsity during the first minute of play in the second and Ingram matched a goal by Klingspoon before the sandwich session was half over. The New Methods came back strong after that, however, and rifled home two more before the end of the second to make it 6-3 and then continued by adding another pair before Ingram got his second for "Shorts" Purcell's club.

NEW METHOD: McLennan; Stuart, Pattinger; Allen, Waring, Dawe. Subs —Holmes, Darling, Wotherspon, Morgan, Ryan, Heron, McAra, Klingspon.

UNIVERSITY: Jeffries; Ingram, Boyce; Dimock, Docker, Cox. Subs—Soldan, Gourlay, Lyons, Younger, Colbourne, Cameron, McQuay.

Calgary Considers Football Imports

CALGARY, Jan. 31-(CP)- Calgary Stampeder football club, at the annual meeting here today, re-elected Jack Grogan as president for the 1947 season but delayed temporarily definite action on a project to import American or Eastern Canada players to bolster the entry in the Western Canada Football League.

During lengthy discussion the meeting generally indicated it approved importing players this year but no definite plans will be made until after the meeting of the Western Union scheduled Sunday in Regina.

More than 30 entries in the field of 148 crack amateurs and pros bettered the par 70 figure for the 6,500 - yard El Rio Country Club course.

Ben Colk, the Vancouver pro, carded a 35-31—66 trailing Clark through the first round by a stroke was Bulky Clayton Haefner with a 30-34—64.

Three Veteran Lines Shading Rookie Trios

TORONTO, Jan. 31 -(CP)- Newcomers to the National Hockey League haven't made many changes on the picture when it comes to high-scoring combinations and currently all three leading front lines are composed of players well past the rookie stage, with years of experience together.

Leading the big-time parade on total-scoring points is the lightening - fast "pony" line of Chicago's Black Hawks—Billy Mosienko and the Bentley brothers, Max and Doug. Although the Hawks seem hopelessly mired in the league cellar the "pony" boys have 42 goals and 62 assists for a total of 104 points.

THREE POINTS behind the Chicago threesome are the two other well-tried combinations, Boston's aging "Kitchener" line and the powerful "Punch" line of the world-champion Montreal Canadiens, which unlike its rival threesome, remained together as a unit in the NHL throughout the war years.

The habitants' crack trio of Elmer Lach, Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Hector (Toe) Blake lead all other attacking forces in goals scored with 55 and they have 46 assists. More than half their scoring total goes to Richard, the league's high marksman with 30 goals.

ALL OVERSEAS with the RCAF and reunited with the Boston Bruins last season, the "Kitchener" line of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart, seems to have regained its pre-war magic. Between them they have 101 scoring points, including 50 goals.

Detroit Red Wings "Bargain" line of Billy Taylor, Roy Conacher and Pete Horeck form the strongest challenge to the established threesomes, with a combined total of 94 points. All obtained from other clubs in trades this season, the line rates manager Jack Adams as the shrewdest dealer of 1946-47.

Ken Hunter, flashy Calgary playmaker, assumed a six-point lead over the field when he picked up a goal and an assist as Stampeders nosed out Lethbridge Maple Leafs 3-2 in overtime Wednesday night. The two points boosted Ken's total to 58, composed of 25 goals and 33 assists.

Joe Fisher, Lethbridge right winger, picked up an assist to bring his total to 52. Joe is the league's leading playmaker with 40 assists, while Bing Merluk Edmonton, is top scorer with 29 goals.

Portland Again Defeats Oakland

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 31-(AP)- Portland Eagles returned home last night to pin another defeat on the Oakland Oaks in a 5-4 double overtime Pacific Coast Hockey League contest. It was the fourth loss in five games of a northern road trip for the Oaks.

For the Eagles, who just wound up a road trip of ther own, it was the 8th game in 12 nights, but they had enough energy left to go into overtime and throw a fast three-man attack down the ice that produced the winning goal in 1:45 of the second sudden-death period.

Centre Bill Kyle rammed the puck home on a fast play started by Ed Coleman and relayed by Jim Planche. It was Kyle's third goal of the game.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 31-(AP) - Heavyweight champion Joe Louis' 10-round exhibition with Chilean Arturo Godoy has been postponed from Feb. 5 to Feb. 7.

16 Unbeaten Rinks In Regina 'Spiel

REGINA, Jan. 31-(CP)-There were only 16 unbeaten foursomes as the 11:45 p.m. shift got underway last night in the Regina Bonspiel which started with 250 unblemished rinks last Tuesday.

The unbeaten list was expected to drop to about 10 by morning.

Joe Young of Newdale and G. Lee of McAsley, both of Manitoba, remained undefeated along with Dr. H. E. McKellar, Bill Young and Archie Young of Carlyle.

Fourteen rinks had reached the 16's of the Imperial Life, premier event of the biggest 'spiel in Saskatchewan's history.

Oddest game of the day was that between H. Cathro of Avonlea and D. Brown of Antler in the Hotels, won by the Avonlea rink 4-3.

It went the extra end and at the same time chalked up the lowest score up to that point in the 'spiel. Oldtimers could not recall a score as low in the history of the carnival.

Saskatoon 'Spiel

Saskatoon, Jan. 31-(CP)-Visiting curlers carried away two more Saskatoon bonspiel trophies Thursday as Harry Miller, Unity, won the Star-Phoenix, and Bill Dunbar Perdue, gained premier honors in the A.A. Murphy.

Hawk Chiefs Eyeing Francis "The Cat"

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 -(CP)- It wouldn't be fair to lay l the blame for the hapless position of the Black Hawks on Paul Bibeault, but already the drums are beating for new blood—and the goalie expected to perform miracles and respark the Chicagoans to new National Hockey League glory may come from Saskatchewan wheat lands.

Hawks' scout Tiny Thompson, and owner Bill Tobin are in Regina, and the object of the visit of these two puck-ivory hunters is to see the goaltending wonder boy of the Saskatchewan Capital—Emile (The Cat) Francis.

FRANCIS MUST BE good, for although he finds himself in a similar position to Bibeault, picking pucks out of the net for a last-place club, he's the most talked of netminder on the prairies today. The Cat currently dons pads for Regina Caps, deep in the cellar of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see Francis in the Hawk nets before the season ends," said Thompson before he headed for Regina. "He's on the small side, but awfully quick, has all kinds of spirit and is a real crowd pleaser."

ALREADY SIGNED by the Hawks, Francis must first gain permission of the Caps and the president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association before he turns pro at this time, due to an understanding that the N. H. L. will not "raid" amateur clubs after Jan. 15. Due to the lowly position of the Regina Club it's not likely they'd aise any objections.

Only 21, the Cat has already had one shot at professional hockey, playing with Hershey Bears of the American League in 1943-44 and with Washington Lions the following year. Then after a stint in the Canadian Army he gained reinstatement as an amateur and last season helped Moose Jaw Canucks win the Saskatchewan junior title.

Chandler Plans To Take "Action"

NEW YORK, Jan. 31-(AP)-Fully aware of gambling's gnawing threat to professional sports, baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler said Thursday he would take "appropriate action" in the Evangeline League scandal as soon as the final minor league decision is known.

Chandler scheduled a conference with George Trautman, newly elected president of the minor leagues, during the series of weekend baseball meetings that will be climaxed Saturday by a joint major league session. He expressed himself as fully confident of Trautman's ability to handle the situation but added he would "take whatever steps are necessary if the thing gets out of hand."

Five Evangeline league players were placed on the ineligible list Jan. 25 by William G. Bramham, retiring minor league head. On Wednesday Bramham reported one of the class D clubs involved in the scandal had employed three or four alleged bookmakers as players.

In turning the case over to Trautman, Bramham charged that the players regularly associated with known gamblers.

Tacoma Surprises New Westminster

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Jan. 31-(CP)-Don McIntyre punched in an overtime goal to give the cellar-place Tacoma Rockets a 4-3 victory over New Westminster Royals in a Pacific Coast Hockey League game here last night.

Mainspring of the Rocket's attack was Don Milford who snared two markers and assisted in another. Bill Curik and Don McIntyre accounted for the other tallies. Marksmen for the losing Royals, who lost a chance of taking over sole possession of second place in the northern division, were Red Carr with two goals and Cece Allen with a singleton.

British Opposition Raps Planning Bill

By Basil Dean

LONDON.—In cold, unemotional tones, Britain's Town Planning Minister Lewis Silkin presented his monumental town and country planning bill to parliament.

Few Conservative opposition members, who Thursday will divide the commons on a motion to reject the bill, were impressed by Mr. Silkin's able exposition of the most complex measure the present parliament has had to consider.

The bill gives the government power to control all land development through the nation's county councils. Every piece of building—homes, factories, stores, schools—from now on will be considered in the light of a nation-wide planning scheme.

Although the Conservatives will vote for rejection of the bill, their spokesmen made it clear that they have no quarrel with what the bill sets out to do. For ten years British governments have recognized the need for comprehensive planning to make the best use of limited land resources.

Nor did the opposition find any fault Wednesday with the bill's financial provisions, which are at the root of the controversy. These provide for the confiscation of any increase in land values resulting from planning measures, and also empower the new central land board to pay compensation where depreciation of land values through planning requirements causes proven hardship.

The Conservatives didn't argue that these provisions are basically inequitable. They disliked the fact there is no set obligation on the central land board to pay out any compensation at all, and in any case total compensation is limited to £300,000,000 which the Conservatives say is inadequate.

Flays Immigration Policy of Canada

MONTREAL, (CP) — C. Gordon Cockshutt of Brantford, Ont., president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Thursday described Canada's immigration policy as "provincial, myopic and fruitless."

Addressing the Montreal chamber, he scored the government's "indifference and delay" in starting an immigration and said that now was the time to secure the kind of immigrants needed to "round out Canadian economy."

See Difficulties Food Distribution

WASHINGTON, (AP)— The International Food Emergency council said "very difficult days" lie ahead in preventing breakdown of food distribution in many countries, human suffering and "political turmoil or even chaos."

The council said it is experiencing great difficulty in agreeing on distribution of short supplies among nations in need.

The report said the world cereal supply outlook had darkened considerably since last fall as a result of unfavorable crop conditions in several parts of the world.

The United States asked the council for sufficient sugar from this year's world supply to allow an average of 95.1 pounds per person. Consumption last year averaged about 73 pounds.

The Council estimated the 1947 world sugar supply at 30,100,000 short tons, raw value. This compares with a world consumption of 26,700,000 last year and with a pre-war average consumption of 32,500,000 tons.

Demands of all countries participating in commercial marketing were reported at 1,200,000 tons in excess of the supply.

The American request for a 1947 per capita supply of 95.1 pounds compared with requests of 92.3 for the United Kingdom, 95.3 for Canada.

Two States Feud At River Poaching

By Peter Inglis

WASHINGTON.—It's war, gentlemen, and right on the broad gray river on which Washington is built.

Thursday night a 700-word ultimatum was hurled across the Potomac via Western Union by Governor Tuck of Virginia. Its recipient, Governor Lane of Maryland.

It was his duty, Governor Tuck wired, "to uphold the lawful rights of Virginia whenever, wherever and by whomever they may be assailed." Furthermore "any attempt on the part of Maryland without the consent of Virginia to try Virginia people in the courts of Maryland is a nullity and I shall so instruct our seafaring people."

All these fighting words are about oysters. For decades the two states have feuded about poaching by the oystermen of each in the territorial waters of the other. There was a time when both states maintained small navies with guns to protect their sovereign rights.

Of recent years things have been arranged more amicably, and it has been customary for a Virginia man caught oystering in Maryland waters to be shipped back to his own state and tried in his own courts. However, Maryland has been claiming the Virginian courts tend to dismiss lightly such affronts, and it is proposing to try poachers from Virginia in its own courts. That's what Governor Tuck's ultimatum is about.

Find Alaska Road Trucking Costly

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, (AP)—Col. Frank A. Bogart, director of logistics for the Alaska department, indicated here the Alaska highway is primarily of value as a means for emergency supply.

This new travel road, running from Dawson Creek to Fairbanks through hundreds of miles of muskeg which is uninhabited, is now in daily use, even in rough weather.

"To supply Alaska by truck over the Alaska highway is not economically feasible," he said. He related that the Alaska railroad organization ran a convoy of trucks over the highway during the recent west coast shipping strike, and it found the costs so high that use of the route would be prohibitive from a commercial standpoint.

Col. Bogart said, however, that "rail connection with the United States is possible. Such a route has been surveyed."

He could give no further details on the project, but in his opinion the railroad would be primarily of strategic value and would have to be built and initially maintained by the government, since at first it would not be commercially profitable.

WASHINGTON, (AP) — United States army engineers in 1942 surveyed a route for a railroad to connect the C.N.R. line at Prince George, B.C., with the Alaska railroad at a point south of Fairbanks, interior department officials said.

Two Legation Men Get Europe Posts

OTTAWA, (CP) — Appointment of charges d'affaires to the Canadian legations in Poland and Czechoslovakia was announced Thursday by the external affairs department.

The appointees are Kenneth Kirkwood, formerly with the Canadian legation in the Argentine, who will take charge of the legation in Warsaw and Ronald Macdonnell, in charge of the American division at headquarters here, who goes to Prague in a similar capacity.

Possible Increase In Gas Use Seen

By H. R. Hardy

OTTAWA.—There has been some use of natural gas as an industrial fuel in Alberta, and as proven reserves of this fuel grow, its use may expand somewhat, the royal commission on coal said in its report tabled in the commons Friday.

The use of petroleum fuels for domestic heating is increasing and the report suggests this trend will continue. Oil supplies in the next decade in Canada will be adequate and not much costlier than in the past, it is predicted.

The report suggests that natural gas from Alberta fields might be used in urban centres in Saskatchewan to replace 1,000,000 tons of coal annually. The reserve situation is uncertain, however, and before any long pipelines could be built there must be assurance of export of gas for a long period of years, the commissioners add. The present policy of the Alberta government, the report says, is to control the export of natural gas by yearly licenses.

Banker Captures Fleeing Holdup Man

VANCOUVER. (CP)—A lone bandit held up a branch of the Bank of Montreal in downtown Vancouver Thursday, fled with $300, but was captured by Derick Pratt, the savings manager, after a short chase.

Mrs. Dorothy Woodward, a teller, pressed the burglar alarm, and Pratt jumped a counter and captured the man down the street.

Russia's postal exchange with foreign countries now reaches 300 tons a month, almost four times the prewar figure.

Accept Price Set In Nationalization

LONDON, (AP)—Opponents of Britain's Labor government have fought bitterly the principle of nationalization but there has been no criticism of prices paid for holdings taken over so far.

There have been no cries of expropriation from private owners affected in the nationalization of the Bank of England, the civil airlines, the coal mines and the communication network of Cables and Wireless.

Complaints are rising now, however, as railway proprietors and others fight a bill to bring inland transport under government ownership. The National Health Service act is under attack of physicians.

Long-Time Program

Complete nationalization of business, industry, transport and the land—eventual goal of the Labor party—may take 10 to 25 years, if the Socialists can stay in power that long.

In the financial pay-offs to date, private owners have fared as well—at least for the present—as they did before.

Bank of England stockholders will receive for the next 20 years the same return on their investments they did in the previous two decades.

In civil aviation, Britain simply authorized the three companies it formed to issue stock and borrow necessary funds to operate. There were no previous private owners.

Tribunal for Mines

Britain departed from the stock value method in planning compensation for coal mine owners. The entire holdings—equipment and coal yet to be mined—were estimated to be worth $658,640,000.

An independent tribunal during the next two years will decide which part of the total each of the companies receives and the government will put up cash to continue existing dividends.

The government stock issued for the pay-off will yield about 2½ percent interest but will be non-negotiable.

Maintain Revenue

Another tribunal will decide how much Cable and Wireless stockholders will get for their stock of some £30,000,000 ($120,000,000). Cable and Wireless paid a five-per-cent dividend last year. The decisions will be reached with consideration to net maintainable revenue, which means the individual stockholder's return on his investment should remain approximately the same.

In inland transport the government will pay an estimated £1,075,000,000 ($4,260,000,000) in negotiable stocks to private owners of railroads, canals and harbors according to stock market quotations in November, 1946.

The owners have complained the stock quotations did not show the real value. Government chiefs countered that the holders would receive a smaller, but riskless, revenue.

Plan Consolidate Labor Legislation

CALGARY, (CP)—"Human relations" and esprit de corps are missing in present employer-employe contacts, Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs and minister of trade and industry, told the builders' exchange annual meeting here Wednesday night.

He urged greater co-operation if present difficulties are to be overcome.

"There is nothing in the wind in Alberta toward instituting anti-labor legislation," Mr. Gerhart assured the members. "We don't believe that is the answer. We have not had the troubles here they have in other places."

Labor legislation will be consolidated into one act at the next session of the legislature, Mr. Gerhart announced.

Plan Holidays with Pay

Revisions will be introduced to provide holidays with pay for transient workers and for those in the trades who presently are not provided for.

The time has come for licensing all contractors and requiring that a bond be posted, Mr. Gerhart contended. This would be a safeguard not only to contractors and employes but to the general public, he said.

Consolidation of the old Tradesmen's Qualifications and Apprenticeship act also is planned, Mr. Gerhart said. Certain changes are necessary such as the age at which an apprentice may be accepted. He pointed out Alberta is far ahead of other provinces with apprentices on a per capita basis. Of 800 apprentices in Alberta at present, 500 are veterans.

Speaking of the provincial marketing services, Mr. Gerhart maintained the government stepped into this field only to break a bottleneck and get supplies after individual contractors had failed.

Construction Higher

Construction in the four larger cities of Alberta resulted in the issuance of permits for $29,571,000 in 1946, Mr. Gerhart reported. This was an increase of $12,293,000 over new construction in 1945, a large portion of which was unfinished and formed a backlog for 1946.

He foresaw a vast increase in supplies and materials and easing up of the construction business this spring and early summer.

"Industrialists the world over have been more interested in Alberta's resources and potentials in the past year than in all the other years of her history put together," Mr. Gerhart claimed.

Last year 69 new industries employing well over 1,000 persons were established in Alberta, he said. Plans and commitments for establishing in Alberta have been made by 39 other new industries.

It has been proved that strikes won't settle present problems, Mr. Gerhart contended.

Predict Big Building Program

A substantial extension to the South Edmonton post office is contemplated in the Dominion government's public works program for Edmonton, it was learned at the Civic Block Friday.

THE DOMINION government has purchased the third lot west of 105 street on the south side of Whyte avenue, on which it is proposed to erect an addition to the post office building. The cost of the project has not been disclosed.

A home-building program totaling approximately $200,000 is predicted from purchases made of city-owned property so far during January. Officials of the city land reported Thursday that more than 40 parcels of land had been disposed of this month for home building purposes, and that the average cost of the homes was placed at $5,000 by the land purchasers.

SEVERAL SALES of property to purchasers proposing to erect business structures have been made this month, one being to Frank and Olga Movsey, 12151 65 street. They purchased the first and second lots north of 122 avenue on the west side of 66 street, on which they intend to erect a $4,500 shirt factory.

Henry A. Sullivan, 11527 72 street purchased the fourth lot north of 77 avenue on the west side of 104 street, on which an electric generator and motor wiring structure will be erected.

Allan J. McKeen, 10109 82 avenue, purchased the eighth and ninth lots east of 101 street on the south side of Whyte avenue, on which a $6,000 garage building will be erected, and Wilbert E. Burton, purchased the property at 10578 101 street for $3,300, as the site of a dental laboratory costing $8,000.

The Edmonton public school board purchased a block of land between 109 and 111 avenues and 73 street and the lane, east of 74 street as a site for a school building to be erected this year. Purchase price was $4,750.

First "Out" in Seven Years

Priest Europe-Bound From Storied Arctic

From the storied land of the iceberg, lying on the rim of the world in a direct line about 875 miles north of Edmonton, came a visitor this week whose work has kept him for the past six years in the Coppermine district which is at the tip of a cove in the Coronation Gulf of the Arctic Ocean.

THE REV. FATHER LUCIEN DELALANDE

HE IS THE REV. FR. Lucien Delalande, Roman Catholic priest of the Oblate Order, who has charge of the mission there.

Population of coppermine is about 215, with the 15 being members of the white race and the others native Eskimo.

With the area situated on the rim of the Artic Circle, one of the first questions put to Fr. Delalande Thursday was in respect to weather severities there.

"It is sometimes very cold their—oui," he said, lapsing into his native French, "but it is also cold in Edmonton."

FATHER DELALANDE came to Edmonton from Montreal seven years ago to have a prayer book published in the native tongue of the Eskimo, a compilation from the work of other Catholic missionaries whose lives are devoted to spreading of the Gospel among

Find Accused Not Guilty

Sam Chopoidalo, Frains district resident, won an acquittal Thursday in supreme court on an arson charge, when witnesses for the defence established he was at his farm home at the time RCMP alleged he set fire to the house of William Gordey, Buck Lake.

Finding the accused not guilty, Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor complimented the police on a very well prepared case, but added that all reasonable doubt of the accused's guilt had not been removed by the crown's evidence.

Crown evidence established there were two sets of tracks leading to and from the burned house to the accused's home, but under cross-examination by L. Pekarsky, defence council, a police witness said he had not carried his investigaton to determine if the tracks to Chipoidalo's home continued past his residence. The shoe tracks, according to the crown, were similar in size to boots taken from the accused when arrested.

National Building Code Is Advocated

Need for a national and uniform building code for all of Canada was emphasized at the annual meeting of the Alberta Association of Architects held in the Macdonald hotel Friday.

PRESIDENT Max Dewar, architect for the city of Edmonton, in delivering his annual report, said that concern is being felt that steps taken by federal authorities in the war years have not been actively followed up in an effort to bring about standardization throughout the country.

The report also stressed the difficulties because of heavy demands for new industrial, public and residential building, wth labor unrest and rising costs.

Mr. Dewar said it is difficult to predict when the peak of rising costs will be reached but it would appear at this distance that relief will be felt in the summer of 1947.

ABOUT 25 architects from major centres of the province were in attendance.

These included: John Stevenson, vice-president of the association from Calgary and Jack Cawston, Donald Freeze and Peter Rule, also of Calgary; V. E. Meech, Lethbridge and Secretary Gordon Wynn, Edmonton.

No Price Increase Here

Shoe-Shines Still 15 Cents

Edmonton prices for shoe-shines remain steady at 15 cents even though Vancouver prices this week shot up to 20 cents. The Vancouver prices have gone up because of "increased costs everywhere," according to a report from the coast city.

Half a dozen proprietors of shoe shine stands and barber shops interviewed Friday said they wished "prices could go up" but so far, no increase has been authorized.

Shoe polish has gone up to "twice as much" as it was a year ago, but prices of shoeshines remain the same, said one proprietor of a Jasper avenue stand. It is doubtful that any change will occur in prices, without authority from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, it was said.

Eight Vans Destroyed

Damage $19,000 In Garage Fire

Fire at the Big Four Van Lines garage, 10625 92 street, about 6:15 a.m. Friday, caused damage estimated at $19,000. Lost in the blaze were eight van-type trucks valued at an average of $2,000 each, and the $3,000 building.

SO FAR NO CAUSE has been given for the fire, which proved an extremely cold job for firemen, who had to lay three lines of hose for about 150 yards. At 10 a.m. Friday the firemen covered with ice, were still pouring water into the smouldering remains of the trucks.

The loss is covered by insurance, according to R. H. Potter, secretary-treasurer of the firm. The eight vehicles were all that were owned by the firm. However, work will be carried on as efficiently as possible for the time being, with vehicles borrowed from other concerns. The management stated that it hopes to acquire new vans soon, although it will take considerable time to have the padded-type bodies built onto the chassis.

CHARLES McGOWAN, night watchman at the warehouse, said he awoke about 6 a.m. and from the main part of the building saw smoke coming from the direction of the garage, which is situated at the east end of the main building. Mr. McGowan said that when he noticed the blaze it had already obtained a good hold, and was burning furiously. Although he turned in the alarm immediately, the nightwatchman said some one in the neighborhood already had done so previously.

A wall about two feet thick separated the garage from the main warehouse, and through the efforts of firemen from halls numbers five, seven, one and two, damage to the main building was practically nil. Fire Chief James MacGregor was in charge and ordered three lines of hose, additional booster lines, and extinguishers into action.

THE ONE-STOREY wooden frame building was heated by an automatic stoker, and had a cement floor. When flames reached the padding inside of the vans, they were difficult for firemen to extinguish, and kept smouldering. Among the eight vehicles lost was a new tractor truck which had only been brought a few days ago, to the garage.

An effort was being made by the management Friday to keep employed the 13 men directly affected by the loss of the vans.

City Power Plant Requirements Up

Production at the city power plant for the period Jan. 1 to Jan. 26 this year for city requirements totalled 10,384,500 kilowatt hours, compared with 9,758,200 for the same period last year, an increase of 626,300 kilowatt hours, according to a statement filed with the city commissioners by W. I. McFarland, power superintendent. A total of 2,808,500 kilowatt hours was sold to the Calgary Power Co. in the period under the new cash purchase agreement.

Supply of Gas Cut Off Briefly

A small obstruction which was carried through gas pipes Friday morning to the Jasper Place regulator, caused a decrease in pressure and interrupted, for a brief period, the gas flow to 12 homes in the district, it was announced Friday by Julian Garrett, vice-president and general manager, Northwestern Utilities Ltd.

The inlet pressure at the regulation station was affected, and the dropping of pressure caused the safety device attached to the meters in the homes to cut off supply.

The cut-off was immediately reported to the company, and repair men quickly made the necessary adjustments to restore normal gas supplies.

Weather Service Subject of Talk

Improved methods of forecasting, which make prediction of future weather a science, were outlined to members of the Optimist club at their noon luncheon Thursday at the Macdonald hotel, by Dr. Thomas How, head of the government meteorological bureau here.

HE MENTIONED that once every two days a superfortress takes off from California, flies over the Aleutians to secure data on weather conditions and probable changes. He expressed the hope that a similar service over the northern part of the continent might be performed soon by the RCAF.

He also described some of the new services to be put into operation shortly. One is a trans-Canada service for shipping and packing companies, so they may know the weather 24 hours in advance and be able to determine how to pack their goods.

ARMY KIT MISSING

Theft of a large army pack containing clothes, shaving kit, books and paper from his room at 10347 98 street was reported to city police Thursday by J.F. Moffat. He said the pack was stolen sometime Wednesday.

MAXWELL C. DEWAR

Dewar Re-Elected Architects' Head

Maxwell C. Dewar, Edmonton city architect was re-elected president of the Alberta Association of Architects at the annual meeting of that body held in the Macdonald hotel Friday. It is the third successive term as president for Mr. Dewar.

JOHN STEVENSON of Calgary, was re-elected first vice-president with Prof. C. S. Burgess, Edmonton, second vice-president.

Secretary for another year is Gordon Wynn of Edmonton, with T. G. Aberdeen, Edmonton treasurer.

Miss Jean Wallbridge Edmonton and V. E. Meech Lethbridge, are council members, who along with the elected officers form the association board.

ROSS STANLEY of Lethbridge was among out-of-town delegates which numbered 24.

Convention continued Friday afternoon with a banquet winding up the session in the Macdonald at 7:30 p.m.

Tax Collections

Tax collections up to Jan. 30 this year totaled $1,662,505.13 compared with $1,637,437.70 for the same period last year, an increase of $25,067.43, according to figures released Friday by the city assessor's office. The January, 1947 collections will establish a new record when the final day's payments are recorded.

Bank Clearings

Bank clearings through the Edmonton Clearing House for the week ended Jan. 30 amounted to $10,502,794.87 and for the corresponding week of last year the total was $9,510,491.60.

Robertson's Annual Meeting

Church Gives Reports On Successful Year

Concluding a most successful year of operation, Robertson United Church held its annual meeting in the church Wednesday evening, when reports revealed 1,471 members enrolled in the church.

TOTAL CHURCH revenue for the year amounted to more than $52,000. The Rev. Angus J. MacQueen, minister, presided at the meeting. During the year there were 66 baptisms; marriages were 44 and burials, 21.

"Some of the encouraging features in the year," said Mr. MacQueen, "were the number of new communicant members received into the church, the splendid attendance at communion services, the increased givings to missionary and maintenance fund; the election and admission of nine new session members, and the general enthusiasm and hope aroused within the congregation by the drive for the proposed Memorial Hall."

IN THE REPORT of the board of stewards, it was shown that $7,850 was given to the United Church pension fund, that the organ had been electrified, and pledges amounting to $33,000 received for the memorial fund.

Priest Back

The young priest intends to make a long journey on his first "out" from the north in seven years. He is in Edmonton awaiting the booking of passage to Europe. After visiting eastern Canada, he will sail from Halifax for France. He will spend some time there in conference with church dignitaries and afterward will go to Rome to attend an important meeting of members of the Society of Oblates.

PROUD OF HIS parishioners, Fr. Delalande said his congregation numbered about 50 natives and that they were all progressing well in Christian development.

Health of the community was good, he reported. This winter there were no shortages of food needs not indigenous to the area. Ice floes sometimes delay arrival by boat of such essentials as salt, sugar, flour and other needs but not so this winter.

Dangers of extreme privation were very much less than in the past due to the development of air travel, and Coppermine boasts a radio transmitter, so that if extreme shortages did occur there was always hope of having food flown in.

THE PRIEST MADE the trip to Edmonton by plane.

Of the fifteen white persons at Coronation, the priest named them as the Hudson's Bay Company manager; a radio operator; Mr. and Mrs. McLean and daughter; two RCMP officers, Rev. Mr. Webster, pastor of the Anglican mission, Mrs. Webster and daughter; and three Oblate priests who range a territory of from 200 to 300 miles in area in carrying their missions to outpost settlements.

TWO OF THE NATIVE named posts at which Fr. Delalande served were Gualaktuk and Tuktuk. He served at the latter mission for four years.

Support of Forces By Public Urged

Continued support of the public to the reserve and active armies is an essential in maintaining the peace said Maj. Gen. F. F. Worthington, CB, MC, MM, general officer commanding Western Command, Canadian Army, at a meeting of the Canadian Military Institute Thursday evening. The meeting, attended by about 25 executives of the institute and military, was held in the officers mess, Western Command, Prince of Wales Armors.

OUR MODERN reserve and active armies must be kept close to the public," Maj. Gen. Worthington said, "and we must use every means at our disposal to keep public interest because we all realize that the maintenance of the peace is the most important aim of the present day, and that in war, nobody wins."

Evidence adduced at the trial was that Ostgard requested Nathan Siegel South Edmonton merchant, to make out the body of a cheque which the accused signed in the name of Ed. Robinson. This was cashed by the accused, who represented it as payment of wages made to him by the singer. The cheque was cashed by Steve Maloney, Strathcona hotel.

Fire Razes School

The children of Salisbury had a holiday from school Friday, and are likely to have a few more, as the one-room brick school was completely destroyed by fire early Friday. The loss was estimated by school officials at about $8,000.

Built in 1912, the school held about 35 pupils. All desks and other equipment were completely destroyed by the blaze, which broke out about 2 a.m.

First to notice the blaze was Edward Pall, the caretaker who lives a few hundred yards from the building. He awoke when he smelled smoke which was blowing over his house.

According to A. J. Ottewell, district resident, the children will be without a school for sometime. However an effort is being made to use the United Church in the district as a school house. Teacher for the school was Mrs. Edith Reyda who lives nearby.

The review will likely deal extensively with the recently imposed federal taxation system on co-operatives, and the effect it has had since its institution last year, according to F.J. Fitzpatrick provincial supervisor of co-operatives.

The three - day conference will be held at the university.

DA "Interested" In Fight Managers

NEW YORK, Jan. 31-(AP) - Undercover fight managers with criminal records Thursday became the particular target of the ever - widening investigation of gambling and fixing in sports, with the flat assertion by the District Attorney that he is "more interested" in them than in any other angle of the inquiry.

These hidden pilots who control the movements of fighters while "fronts" act as managers of record—and evil which is common gossip in fistic circles—were pointed out particularly by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan in an interview to touching on both the $100,000 offer to middleweight title contender Rocky Graziano to throw a fight—which never came off—and the attempt to fix last month's national professional football league championship.

"If any gangster or people with criminal records are actual managers of fighters, I think it would be a public service to expose them more than anything else."

Explains Cause Of Cannibalism

Reasons for the practice of cannibalism among natives in some areas of the world, were given by the Rev. E. J. Heuer, secretary of the Northern Alberta Auxiliary, British and Foreign Bible Society, at a meeting of McDougall United Men's Association Wednesday night.

A CANNIBAL is not a man-eater because of a desire for human flesh for its own sake, but so that he might gain for himself the attributes, bravery and skill possessed by his victim.

He said that many missionaries had paid with their lives, during the early days of missionary work in the islands of the South Pacific, but that gradually Christianity had erased such paganism as cannibalism from the natives' mode of life.

C. D. Denney, secretary, introduced the speaker, and Sidney B. Simmonds thanked him. Clifton G. Purvis, KC., president was chairman.

MISS VERNA WEAVER sang several solos, accompanied by Miss Della Anderson.

A vote of thanks was expressed to W. J. Hendra for the recent successful presentation of Handel's "The Messiah". T. H. Wells moved that a letter of thanks be sent to Mr. Hendra.

In 1945 the congregation bought a manse in addition to their regular givings, making for the two year period an amount raised of $69,606.21 for all purposes. In the past year the regular givings to missions were $6,037.86, which including the Advance made the year's support of the church's extension program, $24,273.52.

A FEATURE OF THE meeting was the announcement by the minister that two young women of the congregation have offered service, and will be going to their fields during the coming year.

The event of the evening was the presentation to the Rev. Mr. Miller and Mrs. Miller of a cabinet of sterling silver and a dinner set of English china, as an expression of appreciation for the completion of six years service with the congregation.

The choir report showed the results of leadership by A. Newcombe, ATCM, director of music. Much fine music had been rendered through the service of praise and the choir has grown to 60 voices.

MISS MARY SHAW, a recent graduate of the Presbyterian training school in Toronto, had been appointed deaconess during the year.

These should be submitted in ample time for study prior to the hearings.

THE COMMITTEE, expected to recommend extension of the act, will hear L. S. Turcotte, Lethbridge barrister, plead for an immediate lifting of the law on behalf of the Hutterites.

Public Confidence

Canadians contracted with this Company for one hundred and ninety-seven million dollars of life insurance during the past year ($197,819,000). These purchases exceeded those of any previous year by over a million dollars a week.

The total amount of financial security which London Life policyholders have provided for themselves and their families, is now more than one billion, two hundred and eighty million dollars ($1,281,101,000).

Reports of the Company's stewardship presented at the recent Annual Meeting show that the growth in size has been accompanied by a further increase in financial strength. The assets of the Company are two hundred and forty-eight million dollars ($248,782,000), and to safeguard the interests of policyholders, making "assurance doubly sure" for them, contingency and surplus funds amount to 8 per cent of the assets.

The strong position of the London Life is evidenced by the fact that, in spite of the general decline in interest rates, it has been able to maintain its tradition of low cost insurance to policyholders. In fact, many owners of policies on "protection plans" will receive increases in dividends during 1947. The Company's record over the past half century for low cost life insurance has been unexcelled.

The healthy and rapid growth of the Company is the best possible assurance of continued satisfaction to policyholders, and one of the reasons the London Life merits public confidence in full measure.

A copy of the 1946 Annual Report will be mailed upon request to any Branch Office.

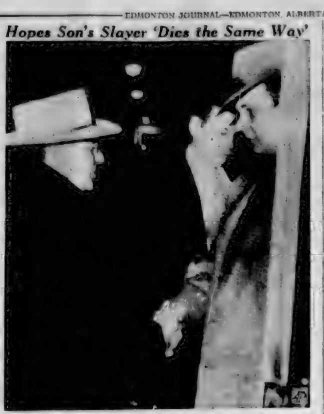
Hopes Son's Slayer 'Dies the Same Way'



Anthony Whittley, left, is photographed as he grasped the hand of Police Officer Joseph Tucker, right, and said, in a sarcastic voice, "I want to congratulate you for putting my son in his grave. I hope some day you go the same way. . ." A coroner's jury at Los Angeles, ruled the slaying was justifiable homicide, Tucker shooting Arthur Whittley, 21, while attempting to question the youth about a stolen car.

Set Hearing Dates On Hutterite Act

CALGARY, (CP)—First representation to the special committee of the Alberta legislature studying the Land Sales Prohibition act will be made by the Hutterites in southern Alberta at a public meeting in Lethbridge Feb. 10.

This was announced after the first meeting of the committee held here Wednesday.

Public meetings also will be held by the committee in Calgary, Feb. 13 and 14 and at the legislative building in Edmonton Feb. 24 and 25.

Ivan Casey, High River-Okotoks M.L.A., is chairman of the committee.

Under the act passed in 1944 no person is allowed to sell land to a Hutterite. It is scheduled to expire May 1.

Will Signed with 'X' Is Ruled as Legal

CALGARY (CP)—A $14,500 will signed only with an "X" has been ruled legal by Judge J. W. McDonald in district court here.

When Charles Eggie signed the will last summer he was suffering from a paralytic stroke. Unable to speak or write, he signed his will with the "X" mark with the assistance of a friend and in the presence of a third person, it was testified.

Eggie left $14,500 in bonds to his brother-in-law, James Anderson, with whom he had lived for 32 years.

Military Institute Will Change Name

CALGARY (CP)—The Alberta Military Institute, founded in 1920, will change its name to the Alberta United Services Institute. At the annual general meeting of the officers' mess it was decided the new name was more appropriate to an organization which embraced all three fighting services.

Australia estimates it will produce 970,000 tons of meat this year.

Martin Declares Veto Necessary

QUEBEC (CP)—Health Minister Martin said at a Canadian club luncheon use of the veto in the United Nations security council had been abused but withdrawal of it would "imperil the organization before it is fairly launched in its work."

"Originally designed as a means for keeping the big powers united, it has become an instrument for dividing them," he said.

"But we should never forget this all-important fact: unless the veto right for the major powers had been written into the charter the organization never would have come into being."

The United Nations had been more successful than most people appreciated.

Plan to Increase Police Mobility

Plans to increase the mobility of Edmonton's police force are being discussed between the city commissioners and Chief Constable Reginald Jennings it was announced Thursday by Mayor Harry Ainlay.

It is expected that the number of prowler cars and radio equipped motor cycles will be increased to give greater protection throughout the city, and also to avoid the necessity of appointing a considerable number of new officers when the five day week policy becomes effective in this department on April 1 next.

Final decision of the matter will be made shortly.

Alberta Coal Marketable In Ontario

Ontario will take all the deep seam domestic coal it can get delivered from Alberta at the present time but as long as the Dominion government subsidizes Ontario dealers selling United States anthracite, Alberta domestic coal will have difficulty competing with American fuel for a permanent market in that province.

THIS WAS THE VIEW expressed here Thursday by E. S. Clarry, for 20 years trade commissioner for Alberta in Ontario.

Mr. Clarry, who will be retiring next spring as trade commissioner, has been appointed president of Tantalum Refining and Mining Corp., a company planning erection of a large plant in Edmonton for refining of ore from tanatilite mines in the North West Territories.

Because of subsidies paid Ontario coal dealers importing U. S. anthracite, price of this coal is being held pretty well at prewar levels whereas with increased mining costs in the west, Alberta coal cannot compete with the U. S. fuel, Mr. Clarry explained.

Alberta coal producers are actually getting only the same assistance from the government in the way of subsidy as they did before the war he pointed out.

IF THE ASSISTANCE now given U. S. anthracite were withdrawn it would sell for about $2 more per ton than it is at present marketed.

Say Alberta Grain Delayed in Transit

Investigations concerning the delay of Alberta grain exhibits consigned last fall to the Chicago international exhibition have revealed that the samples were expressed out of Edmonton and Calgary on dates agreed upon between provincial government officials and the railway, it was announced Thursday by A. M. Wilson, provincial field crops commissioner.

DELAYS APPARENTLY occurred in transit after the samples had progressed to eastern points; these while minor at the time resulted other delays in connections later.

The Alberta exhibits arrived at their destination on Nov. 27 not being delivered to the fair until Dec. 2 and 3, and the investigations revealed that all samples arrived despite a Chicago report that one exhibit was missing.

MR. WILSON said that all correspondence conducted during the investigation would be forwarded to the exhibitors concerned.

He expressed the hope that the unusual and regrettable incident would not deter grain growers from entering world contests in the future. Alberta's reputation in grain raising was of the highest.

No such incident would occur again was his opinion.

England led the rest of the world in the foundation of the first society for the prevention of cruelty to animals in 1824.

Coal Production Said Increasing

In an unofficial estimate of the province's annual coal production learned today from a usually well informed source Alberta exceeded the previous year's total output by at least 1,000,000 tons.

In 1945 the province's mines yielded 7,750,000 tons which would place the present tonnage close to 9,000,000.

Official figures will not be released until the report of the coal branch is tabled at the opening of the Legislature, scheduled for Feb. 20.

Discrimination Thing of Past

OTTAWA, Jan. 31 -(CP)- Despite what some men may think discrimination against women in the business world rapidly is becoming a thing of the past—for there's more than meets the eye in an announcement by the health department of the appointment of Mrs. A. S. Fergusson Saint John N.B., as regional director of family allowances for New Brunswick.

ACROSS CANADA women flew to defend their sex when the civil service commission prefaced its advertisement of the opening with a "males only" slug. The National Council of Women and the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs protested to departmental officials.

Dr. G. F. Davidson, deputy minister of health and welfare was apologetic. It had been a "clerical mistake .... the department had had no intention of discriminating against women ...."

AND HASTILY the CS[illegible]sed their advertisement—th[illegible] the job was announced open [illegible] both male and female appl[illegible].

Competitions were held [illegible] Mrs Fergusson a prominent Maritime lawyer was chosen for the job. Formerly enforcement counsel of the prices board for New Brunswick and only woman in Canada to serve in that capacity she is now the first woman regional director of family allowances.

"Our policy is to open all competitions to both men and women where that is desirable," he continued. "The only exception is in those classes where there are physical and technical requirements involved, making it more suitable that a man should be chosen—and just as often there are jobs which only women can fill."

Told Wife Not Chattel

LONDON, Jan. 31 -(CP)- Husbands haven't changed since Victorian days, says Reginald Pestell, secretary of the Marriage Guidance Council—and he doesn't like it.

"In Queen Victoria's time, a woman's husband was her managing director," he told a London conference of health visitors and school nurses

"HE REGARDED her as a chattel, and today this feeling persists.

"Men still believe women are on a lower plane than themselves and, after marriage, expect wives to sink their personaility and submerge their individuality in that of their husbands."

Woman's resolve to establish equality with man will make marriage a healthier relationship ultimately, he said, but he questioned whether there is such a thing as an "ideal marriage."

PESTELL said more advice on birth-control should be available to the public, and he expressed belief that social workers are the right people to give it. But one social worker had lost her job because she gave such advice against the ruling of the municipal medical officer of health—the man who has the final say.

Show New Hat Fashions At Opening of Parliament

By Kay Rex

OTTAWA, Jan. 31 -(CP)- There were ostrich plumes in pink, turquoise, and black, and "powder puff" headgear made from nylon or satin ribbon. Everything showed in hats from a dashing "Empress Eugenie" trifle to a sober black "tailor-made."

While not a fashion parade in the literal sense of the term, the styles displayed Thursday by wives and friends of senators and members of parliament at the parliamentary opening previewed what the well-dressed government official's wife will wear in Ottawa during the coming season.

THE DRESSES [illegible] more sober with [illegible] and grey tones predominating. B[illegible] in many cases the extreme cut of the gown made up for a more conservative color.

Viscountess Alexander chose a floor-length fitted gown of midnightblue velvet for the opening. Accessories included a small blue-flowered hat and her jewelry she wore a diamond necklace and clasp. She was attended by her lady-in-waiting, Jennifer Bevan, who wore a crepe dress of flame red with a matching feather hat and double-strand pearls.

English Nurses Study in Canada

TORONTO, —(CP)— Canadian Red Cross outpost hospitals offer a rich experience to nurses in the opinion of two English girls now enrolled at the University of Toronto. They are Miss Elsie Stephenson and Miss Eileen Reese, who came to Canada together on Florence Nightingale International Foundation scholarships.

Miss Stephenson received recognition at Christmas when she attended alone at the birth of a baby at Lion's Head Red Cross outpost hospital, while Tobermory and the adjacent part of Ontario's Bruce peninsula was snowbound.

Previously she had done relief work with the British Red Cross in Egypt, Italy and Yugoslavia, and handled Canadian Red Cross prisoner-of-war food parcels and medical supplies in Germany.

Miss Reese worked in hospitals in Egypt, Palestine and Malta. During the recent Christmas holidays she was stationed at the Bracebridge outpost hospital.

The girls are scheduled to return to England in the spring, but first intend to devote the money earned while on hospital duty in Ontario to visit the Canadian Rockies.

C.F.A. Asks National Policy To Give Parity Farm Prices

WINNIPEG, (CP)—Establishment of a national policy which would ensure to those engaged in agriculture the same purchasing power as that of other Canadians was urged Thursday by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

A second resolution, also approved, recommended that failing action by the dominion government to reduce prices to their former levels, the government asked to grant increases in the price of farm products corresponding to increases in cost of farm machinery, fuel and other goods.

The government also was asked to investigate the discrepancy between the domestic and export price of wheat and to make adjustment so "the wheat producer is not called on to bear more than his share of the responsibility for keeping down the price of bread."

Oppose Futures Market

A resolution urging the Canadian Wheat Board be made a permanent organization and be the sole marketing organization for all commercial grain was approved. The resolution expressed strong opposition to reopening the Winnipeg futures market.

Carried without comment was a motion that the federation "recognize the right of Canadian farmers to withhold their products from the market if and when circumstances warrant such action." No strike action should be taken, however, until full consultation with "our associates in the federation and a vote of our membership."

Other motions approved included: a request for a dominion marketing act to help co-ordinate interprovincial and export movements; urging the dominion government to accelerate trade agreements with the United States, Russia, Great Britain, Sweden, France and other countries; establishment of national health insurance; cancer, arthritic and rheumatic research; federal assumption of a substantial proportion of the costs of education; retention of a permanent standards board to assist in grading goods as to quality; and support by the federation to the Co-operative Union of Canada in its efforts on problems of taxation.

Directors of the federation Friday were considering basic agricultural policies, many of them concerning livestock, hog and feed grain matters.

Ask Barley Price Rise

One of the major subjects concerned barley prices.

A tentative program suggested the floor price on barley be increased from 60 to 64¾ cents and the floor price on oats from 45 to 51½ cents, the former basis No. 2 C.W. six row Fort William, the latter No. 2 C.W. Fort William, and similar increases in the domestic ceiling prices.

An acreage payment of $5 an acre was urged on all acres sown to barley in western Canada.

Two Nearly Fight Over Tax Cut Bill

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The family fight among United States Republicans over a proposed 20-percent "across the board" tax cut flared to the verge of fisticuffs in a cafeteria Thursday between two leading G.O.P. members—Reps. Harold Knutson of Minnesota, 66, and Albert Engel of Michigan, 59.

No actual blows were struck, but the two short, stout gentlemen stood face to face and shouted angrily at each other until colleagues intervened.

The incident followed an attack launched by Engel in the house of representatives Wednesday against the tax-cutting bill by Knutson, chairman of the tax-framing ways and means committee. Engel accused Knutson of trying to help the rich and not the poor.

11 Experts in U.S. See Price Decline

NEW YORK, (AP) — Eleven of the top economists of the United States unanimously predicted a decline in the cost of living in the closing half of 1947, in an appraisal released Thursday.

The average of their predictions placed the closing consumers' price index at 140 after indicating an opening of 148. The index figure is based on 1935-39 as 100.

Hubby's Happiness Is Real Bank Money

If wives could be made to realize that keeping husbands happy was money in their pockets, as well as peace and happiness in their homes, it would go a long way towards bringing about the domestic millennium. For strangely enough, while many women marry for meal tickets few of them ever seem to grasp the fact that whether their husbands feed them on pie, or keep them on a bread and water diet, depends upon how they are treated.

Perhaps it is because women are so sold on marriage as a sentimental proposition that they are so dumb about connecting the profit motive with it. They think that all that counts in marriage is love, and that as long as they are still faithful to their Toms, Dicks, or Harrys they don't have to wear themselves out making things pleasant for them.

SO THEY NAG and grouch and complain and make homes that are just about as cheerful and attractive as a penal institution is. There are plenty of husbands whose wives never speak to them except to find fault with them and to reproach them with something they have done, or left undone. Plenty of wives who daily humiliate their husbands by calling the attention of even strangers to their failures. Plenty of wives who are grinding tyrants whose husbands live in terror of them.

No feeling of affection, or compassion, or fair play, or even of common decency is ever going to stop a woman who is a nagger or bossy from nagging and bossing the man who is in her power; but it might make her change her tactics if she could be brought to see that in making her husband miserable she is killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

For happiness is a tonic more potent than any vitamin ever compounded in a laboratory, and peace of mind is the only sure preventive against nervous breakdowns. Give a man these and he can stand a lot of work and strain without cracking.

Take these away from him. Let him come home at night to a wife who flays him alive with her tongue; to a house in which there is never a decent meal or a comfortable place to sit; to ill-reared children who howl and shriek and fight, and he dies because he has nothing to live for. Doctors tell us that stomach ulcers, so common among men, result oftener from an unhappy home life than any other cause.

Every woman is ambitious for her husband. She wants him to be successful, to be prominent, to make money, and when he doesn't make the grade, she feels that she has been defrauded, but often she is responsible for his failure. A man can only go as far as he thinks he can go, and his wife killed his faith in himself by her constant belittling of him and by pouring cold water on all of his plans.

It is the wives who believe in their husbands, who flatter them and praise them and build them up, instead of pulling them down, who ride in chaises.

And, little as wives realize it, there is a dollar-and-cents value to love. As long as a wife keeps her husband in love with her, he will work his fingers to the bone to give her things and achieving the goal she expects him to reach. Nothing pays a woman bigger dividends than being a good wife and making her husband happy.

TRADE TO SWEDEN UP

STOCKHOLM -(CP)— Canada's export to Sweden now is worth about twice as much as before the war and in 1946 probably reached a sum of 30,000,000 kronen, Per Wijkman, Swedish Minister to Canada, said recently. Sweden's export to Canada was valued at some 18,000,000 kronen.

Bridge

By William E. McKenney

I have selected today's hand as one of the most unusual in the recent national championships tournament at Hollywood, Fla. The majority of the North-South pairs played the hand at a four-heart contract and made only five. However, a few pairs bid the hand differently and arrived at six hearts.

South bid three hearts over two clubs. North then bid four diamonds, South four hearts, North five hearts, South six hearts.

At six hearts declarer did not have much choice—he had to depend upon a favorable break. He won the opening diamond lead in dummy with the ace, led a small heart to the ace, led the jack of clubs and let it ride. Then he picked up the trumps and hoped for a three-three break in clubs. That is what he got, and he made five hearts, five clubs and two aces for a small slam.

Strangely enough, all those who played the hand at four hearts did not dare to risk a bad break in clubs. Most of them led dummy's nine of spades and let it ride. When West returned a spade, East ruffed and the contract was held to five-odd.

At a slam contract, declarer had to play the cards where he hoped they would be, but at a contract of only four he played the hand safely.

Why Grow Old?

Actress Jane Harker shows you the position for today's exercise. In this position quickly lift your arms and roll forward.

By Josephine Lowman

So often when women feel that they have lost all claim to beauty or to attractiveness, they find themselves in a vicious circle. Feeling this way causes them to be more and more negligent about diet, exercise, clothes, hair, skin and grooming, and therefore the defects they already have become rapidly worse.

WHAT WOMEN DO NOT realize is that under their layers of fat, contour lies waiting to be dug out with exercise, that dry or oily skin can be improved, that dieting can be easy, that there are, in fact, few defects which fail to respond to daily attention. No woman is hopeless. All women can improve their appearance far more than they realize until they try. It all sounds like black magic but it isn't. Over and over again I have seen startling changes taking place.

This week "Why Grow Old?" is offering you its yearly Eight-Week-Self-Improvement Marathon. If you wish to join I will send you the necessary directions. Then it is up to you to see how much you can improve yourself in eight weeks' time. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request to be enrolled.

TODAY'S EXERCISE is fun to do and it is corrective to fat which has accumulated over the abdomen and the diaphragm. Lie on the floor on your stomach. Place one hand on the floor on each side of your bust. Push from the hands, lifting your torso from the floor. Head up, arch your back. Now quickly lift your hands, keep your back arched, and rock forward. Again place your hands on the floor and repeat.

You rock forward and backward just like a rocking chair. This is an easy exercise but it takes a certain knack. At first most pupils bend their trunks forward as they lift their hands from the floor. The secret is to keep your back arched so that you have the arch to rock forward on.

IF YOU WISH to join the Marathon, send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Elizabeth Woodward Says . . .

You get impatient with the way things are going! You just have to do something about it. So you lie awake nights plotting plots and figuring angles. There must be something you can do to make things come out even. You're bound and determined to DO SOMETHING.

But there are lots of things you can't do anything about. And there is no use bucking that fact. You'd just better sit quietly with your hands folded in your lap, and let things take care of the take care of themselves. For there's nothing you can or should do about them!

WOODWARD

Your girl friend Jean has taken to going out with an old boy friend of yours. You've known him all your life. . .and for the life of you, you can't see what he sees in Jean. You've known her too well and you've watched her with other boys. Your old pal is going to get hurt . . . you know it. Now what can you do to protect him?

That's something you can't do! And knowing him all your life doesn't give you the right to protect him anyhow. Just because you knew him first doesn't mean he belongs to you. His dates with Jean are none of your business. Let him get hurt. . .if he wants to!

The gang of boys your gang of girls has run around with since you were all nine. . .has all of a sudden started taking out girls you don't know. The gang is dissolving into little pieces. . . and you girls are feeling sunk. You're out on the end of a limb. What can you do to get them back and make them toe the mark?

You can't do anything. You can't tie up a bunch of boys and keep them your own forever. If those boys are going to wander afield, you girls had better get started doing the very same thing!

You're up against your father. . . and he's a stone wall. He won't let you go to dances unless you go with your older brother. Your brother's pal usually goes along, and you two are that way about each other. But what can you do to go alone with the pal?

Nothing. . .until your father gives the "go" signal. You go with this boy, even though your brother's along for company. Why not be satisfied with that for a while longer?

You went over to sit with the baby of some friends of yours. They were going out with the most attractive man. They introduced you . . .and you fell hard. When they came home, the friend drove you to your house. You can't think of anybody else now. What can you do to get a date with him?

Nothing!

You go out with Tim on dates. . . and have a marvelous time together. But will he pay any attention to you around school? Not Tim. What can you do to make him show that he knows you're alive?

Nothing!

No matter how much you want to DO SOMETHING about any of these things. . .there's nothing you can do. Some things are out of your hands entirely. Whatever you do. . .you'll stick your foot in it. So you'd better keep your feet tucked under your chair!

TO GET SCREEN TEST—Sales clerk in a Vancouver ladies' wear store who does her acting at night, is Karen Portnoff, 21, she is to appear soon in a 16 mm. film, "Renegade Gold" and plans to visit Hollywood for a screen test at the request of a large studio.

Your Baby and Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

"What causes bow-legs," a reader writes. "Is it caused by a baby standing on his legs when too young, or from lack of vitamins?"

It is due to both. The lack of vitamin D and a proper diet is the primary cause of the soft bones, which then are apt to be bent into bow-legs or knock-knees by the baby's standing weight upon them.

Quite often, if the baby is the victim of rickets, he will be reluctant to stand up. He knows his own deficiencies. But eager parents often lift him to his feet and keep him standing to foster their pride in his progress.

The cure for rickets and soft bones is to bring the baby's diet up to the proper standards for good growth and get advice from a pediatrician on the additional amounts of vitamin D needed to end this nutritional ailment.

Mrs. E. J. N. asks, "When do I start to feed my baby vegetables and fruits? For how long a time should I put sugar in her milk? When can she have egg yolk? She is now four months old and has a heaping teaspoon of baby cereal of each feeding and 26 ounces of formula, 12 ounces of evaporated milk, 14 of boiled water and three tablespoons of maltose."

The formula could be improved by increasing to 13 milk, 20 water and by doubling the present amount of maltose. Make the sugar changes gradually. Sugar is diminished in the formula beginning at about the ninth or tenth month and then eliminated entirely by the first year. The baby will then get sugar in its fruit and desserts and cereals.

Vegetables and fruits can be started as early as the third or fourth month, first one, then the other. The vegetables can be a part of the 2 p.m. feeding, fruit given at the 6 p.m. meal.

Egg yolk is usually added about the sixth month in the form of mashed, hard-cooked egg yolk, one teaspoon of which is mixed with the vegetable serving. Or, you may use a teaspoon or two of a nice custard made of milk and one egg. Because babies are often sensitive to egg yolk, it should be started cautiously and increased the same way. Stop it if the baby is disturbed by it.

Our leaflet No. 14 "Rickets" may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of the Edmonton Bulletin.

Minute Make-Ups

Face lined, dull looking? Here is a minute mask to relieve that dry, dull look. With the finger tips spread a generous layer of vanishing cream over throat and face. Leave it in for one minute. Then remove with cleansing tissues upward and outward strokes, around the eyes carefully. Feel your skin—soft, refreshed. Apply a dot or two of cream rouge, blend, then powder!

WARTIME DOES NOT PRODUCE MORE BOY BABIES THAN GIRLS

Many people believe the old wives' tale that in wartime and national emergency, boy babies are born in excess of girl babies to replenish the nation's manpower. Studies of birth rates over long periods by scientists at John Hopkin's University have entirely disproved this old gag. They find that the ratio stays about the same, with slight fluctuations in both peace and war, with an average of 1,057 boy babies to every 1,000 girl babies. No marked change in this rate was found either during World War 1 or immediately after. Neither do geographic locations nor climate effect the ratio.

Would Increase Government Aid

PEACE RIVER.—Provincial government was requested to share a greater proportion of educational costs by the board of Peace River school division No. 10 when it met in regular session recently. Such a request was made through a petition, chief points of which were:

1. Provincial government should accept a greater share of the financial responsibility for education.
2. Provincial government should offer more incentive to young people to enter the teaching profession.
3. Provincial government should have the department of public works and department of municipal affairs co-operate fully in providing better roads on van routes and snowplowing when necessary.

The matter of snowplowing was thoroughly discussed, with W. F. Gilliland, M.L.A., and J. H. Johnston, district engineer, present. Under existing regulations the extension of snowplowing services in improvement districts is impossible, stated officials.

In order to meet the current situation the board agreed, for the balance of the winter, to pay gas and oil charges for anyone snowplowing on van routes in improvement districts. The board has an arrangement with the council of Municipal District of Peace River No. 135 for plowing of roads within the boundaries of the municipality.

A delegation from Grimshaw village and Grimshaw school board met with the board to discuss school problems. The division board is planning a new four-room school at Grimshaw to replace the building burned several months ago.

The board will meet with Berwyn village school district to consider revision of the inclusion agreement, which has been in operation for three years.

Red Deer Plans Gala Carnival

RED DEER.—First event of its kind to be undertaken by the Red Deer Amateur Athletic association, the winter ice carnival, being staged at the Red Deer arena Monday, Feb. 3, promises to be a well-managed event and the program will open at 7:30 p.m.

Highlight of the evening will be a hockey game between the Red Deer Seventy-Eight Battery Gunners and an All-Star girl's team, coached by Hugh Grieve.

The Battery players will be hobbled in order to give the girls an added advantage. Judging of costumes will take place at 9:30 p.m. and races between chuck wagons will take place after the costume judging. Moccasin dancing will end the evening.

DRILLING FOR GAS

HANNA. —Steady hum of drilling for gas which envelopes the town is a reminder of the threshing outfits' hum which is almost a thing of the past. A breakdown on Sunday was a setback but things were working again in a short time and continue night and day.
